10th Ward Protest

By HUGH REYNOLDS

An estimated 200 persons turned out last night at a 10th Ward grievance session in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church.

Residents were up in arms over lack of safety in the area of School No. 8 on Franklin Street and lack of housing code enforcement throughout the ward.

Action on their complaints began first thing this morning with City Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe, a participant at the meeting, making a tour of the 10th Ward, along with Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan.

Radcliffe's tour this morning was in the company of a photographer and could cost landlords in the ward in both time and money. Formal inspections will be made this week.

"We're going to pursue this thing," Radcliffe told The Freeman this morning. "A landlord has 30 days to correct a violation. If he doesn't, he's subject to court action which could result in a fine of from $25 to $100 or from one day to 30 days in jail, or both."

Mayor Garraghan said this morning that the 10th Ward has been deteriorating for the past 20 years but help was in the immediate future if he could get his workable program approved with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Specifically the mayor and the building inspector inspected buildings at 96 Clinton Avenue and the apartments over the laundrette on Franklin Street. The mayor said residents of those buildings appeared to have valid complaints. He noted that the bannister was missing from the hallway of 96 Clinton Avenue.

Speaking on the overcrowding complaints, Garraghan said, "That can be a tough problem to solve. Sometimes it's impossible to tell exactly how many people live in any one house, what with weekend guests and all."

There seemed to be some sort of lack of communication between city officials and residents concerning alleged lack of safety standards near School No. 8.

Residents had complained that the signs around the school were poorly painted, often going unnoticed by drivers. A letter to that effect was reportedly sent to the Common Council Traffic Committee on the 13th via the City Clerk.

Mayor Garraghan said today he has received no such letter. The clerk's office also had no record of the complaint.

Garraghan dwelled at some length this morning on his workable program which had been rejected once before by DHUD.

He expects a representative of DHUD to approve the revised program Thursday when the representative comes to Kingston.

"If we get that workable program approved, we can put in for federal grants to clear up a lot of these housing violations," Garraghan said.

The City of Poughkeepsie, with an approved workable program, recently was the recipient of a $1.1 million dollar grant to be used for housing code enforcement.

Both the mayor and Radcliffe described last night's meeting as orderly and "very useful" but that it got a little out of hand in its closing stages around 10:30 p. m.

The meeting was called by the Neighborhood Action Group. Chairman of the group is Charles Campbell. Co-Chairman is Ernest Cozza.

Resnick Charges Bias

"This Negro problem is our problem, not the Negro's," Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick (D-Ellenville) told Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce at the group's first fall meeting at the Gov. Clinton Hotel this morning.

The congressman's speech dealt with discrimination in general, both northern and southern. Specifically, he spoke of the inability of the Rev. James Priest, pastor of Progressive Baptist Church on Hone Street to get a mortgage for a new church.

Needed $25,000

Resnick said the Rev. Mr. Priest had tried, and failed, to borrow $25,000 for a new church. He said the congregation of 200 had managed to raise a $5,000 down payment but had been rejected by every bank in Kingston, save one. That bank, according to Resnick, would only loan the money if the other banks participated.

Resnick's charges against Kingston's banks were met by Alexander J. McKittrick, executive vice president of First Federal Savings & Loan Assn., who rose in defense. McKittrick said he had no knowledge of any formal application from the Rev. Mr. Priest, but that in his opinion, the banks of Kingston had an outstanding record of extending loans to churches of all types. He said he felt charges of discrimination were grossly exaggerated, in fact, his bank, in particular, had many loans in the Rondout area.

Later, when he was contacted at his office by The Freeman, McKittrick repeated his bank had received no formal application from the Rev. Mr. Priest.

The Rev. Mr. Priest was contacted by The Freeman this morning and said he had been turned down by the Rondout Savings Bank Downtown, the Rondout National on Broadway and First Federal Savings. He said the Ulster County Savings Bank agreed to float the mortgage on a participation basis with other banks. This, according to both Resnick and the Rev. Priest, was also turned down.

The Freeman also contacted Charles Rider, mortgage officer at Ulster County Savings, who said his bank had given the Rev. Priest's request "more than the usual attention."

"We usually handle church mortgages on a participation basis," Rider said. "We feel a church is a community project and should be financed through the banking community in general."

The banking community apparently felt the Progressive Baptist Church did not qualify for a mortgage.

The Rev. Mr. Priest said today he refuses to give up on his new church, to be built, hopefully, on the site of the present church. "We're not beggars," the Rev. Mr. Priest said today. "We've got $5,000, we own our land, we pay our bills. We're going to get our church."

In speaking of discrimination Resnick said southern discrimination was one of commission, while the northern variety was one of omission.

He said northerners are aghast at police dogs attacking Negroes in Mississippi but refuse to have a Negro for a neighbor in New York.

He once again attacked the so-called coalition of Southern Democrats and Midwestern Republicans which have, according to Resnick, blocked all progressive legislation. He cited the recent failure of the Rat Bill to pass Congress as an example. Resnick voted for the bill which called for a federal program to exterminate rats.

Saugerties Incumbents Drop Conservative Endorsement

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Three Republican incumbents in the Town of Saugerties who are looking for reelection in the fall, have refused to accept the Conservative endorsement that had already been given to them, and the town's Conservative chairman has charged that the "wheeling and dealing" involved in the controversy "is detrimental to the interests of any community."

Saugerties Conservative Chairman Frank Greimel told The Freeman today that, "We were led to believe that our endorsement would be acceptable to them," and we were even told that the acceptance sheets were signed."

In a release given The Freeman last week, it had been announced that the Conservative Party of Saugerties had nominated "a full slate." Included in the slate were the three office holders in question: Supervisor Peter Williams, Town Clerk Marion Newkirk, and Superintendent of Highways William R. Brown.

Police Justice Ernest E. Schirmer also received the nomination but he was the only GOP incumbent to accept the Conservative nod.

Chairman Greimel had stated at the time, "The selection of candidates for political office should be based on an ability to serve the community in its best interests. The criterion should not be the rewarding for past political activity," he had said.

Greimel went on to say, "We are offering candidates who think for themselves and who will have the best interests of the entire township uppermost in mind at all times."

Greimel now says, "A few days ago, I made the statement that our party was offering candidates who can think for themselves. That statement still stands."

"However," he continued, "three, who, perhaps, no longer qualify in this respect, will be missing on Row C in November."

Greimel further said, "The incumbent supervisor, town superintendent of highways, and town clerk, who accepted our nomination two years ago, apparently changed their minds, and have declined our nomination, without any explanation."

The Conservative asked, "We wonder why. Have they fallen into line this year?"

As for giving Greimel or Hoffman the word that Conservative endorsements would be accepted by some Republicans, as Greimel was said he was "led to believe," Francello disagrees.

Pollution---A Soiled Sheet Over Kingston

By LYNN MULVANEY

A soiled sheet hangs over Kingston — a sheet of dust and smoke. It was seen one day last month — a clear day — by Freeman reporter Walter S. Clark Jr., as he flew with photographer and pilot in a four-place Cessna, 1,000 feet over the city.

In Clark's words, "Huge smokestacks towering high in the air at industrial sites along the Hudson River and Rondout Creek and points north and south of Kingston, spewed dust and stifling smoke."

Coughing Spell

"At one point strong, sulphur-like odors caused the plane's occupants to suffer a coughing spell when the plane passed over the Hudson Cement plant and smoke was seen funneling out of chimneys at the Callanan Road Improvement Company plant on New Salem Road.

"A similar condition was observed at the Nytralite Aggregate plant at Eddyville, as well as at cement plants billowing smoke north at Hudson and south as far as Orange County."

The only time the air is clear in the area, reported the pilot, is when a west wind carries the smoke and haze to the east. She said planes are actually grounded at the airport when the air is calm and a pall of smoke and haze stays over the area.

Clear Uptown

In the uptown business section and along central and eastern sections of the city visibility was good and there was no "noticeable" pollution.

Contamination of air is popularly thought to be almost entirely man made but carbon monoxide and other pollutants such as dust and wind-carried spores were on earth long before man. We might then ask just what constitutes air pollution? The consensus is that it exists if any amount of it, massive or minute, becomes a danger to the health and well being of man and his environs.

It mainly consists of hydrocarbons, nitrous oxides and sulfur oxides, but it does not come only from smoke stacks, exhaust pipes or burning dumps. It can be found in the Sahara Desert (dust), at Yellowstone National Park (sulfur arising from fumaroles) or billowing from a backyard barbecue. The distinction lies in determining how much or how little is "normal" for the area and how much is real contamination.

People and sources of air pollution tend to concentrate in the same places and while population changes and pollutants increase, the available amount of air remains the same. And, one-half of the population of the country is concentrated on one per cent of the land area.

Although a major source, cement plants are not the only factors contributing to local air pollution in Ulster County. Contaminated air takes various forms with transportation throughout the mid-Hudson area annually accounting for almost 53,000 tons of hydrocarbon emission. These are concentrated mainly along the river valley.

Home heating, poultry dust, pesticides, campfires and backyard burning as well as town dump fires all contribute toward tainting the terrain.

High Falls

Significantly, it was the High Falls dump that provided the germ of an idea for a Reader's Digest article to be published in a few months by one of the town's residents, Robert Gannon.

The article of course deals with air pollution and tells how the city of Huntsville, Ala., has abated its smoke-filled skies and subsequently attracted new and smokeless industry.

Gannon claims that his proximity to the High Falls dump, located about a mile from his home, keeps him sensitive to the problem that pollution can be.

"Day by day the blue-black acid smoke hovers over the area in such quantity that people in the surrounding countryside cannot have their windows open, even on hot summer nights. Occasionally, 'he says, 'the smoke is augmented by sparks which this year set the woods on fire."

Gannon has met with local officials during the past year and is encouraged by their acknowledgement that a problem exists and can be solved.

Gannon favors sanitary land fill operations rather than incineration because it is less costly and does not pollute as incinerator burning does.

Kerhonkson

In a similar vein, a group of petitioners just two weeks ago called for the closing of the Kerhonkson dump, terming it a "health hazard" and in "unbelievable condition." All live in the area of the dump, it was reported.

As a result, the board agreed to clean it up immediately.

On a larger scale, the more concerned of the citizenry, appraising pollution nationwide, predict that within ten years all major cities will have to restrict the number of hydrocarbon powered vehicles operated within their confines. Still others think that in 20 years or less, thermal pollution partly from nuclear power plants will finish the pollution job unless corrective measures are taken.

NEXT: Chickens, cars and cement dust rank as chief offenders in the causes on air pollution locally. Just how badly they are contaminating Ulster County air will be the subject of tomorrow's article, the third in a series on air pollution.

Nationalist China Embassy Blown Up

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — Communist terrorist blew up the Nationalist Chinese Embassy in Saigon's busy downtown section today and Red agents gunned down two prominent Chinese elsewhere in the capital.

South Vietnamese police said the blast that brought down the two-story embassy and an exchange of gunfire with terrorists killed one person and wounded 27. Fears spread of a new Red terror campaign in Saigon.

On other fronts U.S. planes raided inside North Vietnam's port of Haiphong for the second straight day Monday and Communist gunners rained a torrent of shells on U.S. Marine outposts below the Demilitarized Zone.

Throughout South Vietnam ground action was scattered.

A female terrorist pumped two shots into the chest of Col. Charles T. Chung, chief intelligence officer of the Nationalist Chinese Embassy, shortly after the embassy bombing. Later police arrested 20-year-old Phung Ngoc Anh, a Chinese girl. They found her with a .45-caliber pistol.

Chung was in critical condition. Monday night several terrorists went to the home of a prominent Chinese professor in Cholon, Saigon's Chinese quarter, called him outside and shot him to death. They escaped.

Carrier-based Navy planes blasted Haiphong's main bridges and rail yard and hit at least four sites for Soviet-built missiles around the city.

The Communists claimed five planes were shot down. But the U.S. Command reported only the loss of an RF4C reconnaissance plane in another area. The plane's two crewmen were missing.

Communist shelling along the Demilitarized Zone killed three Marines and wounded 34 in the past 24 hours. Red gunners also raked Con Thien, the main American post on the embattled frontier. In one barrage Con Thien caught more than 200 shells.

Supporting the Marines, B52 bombers dropped heavy bomb loads on enemy positions in the buffer zone while Marine and Air Force fighters raked Red gun positions just above the zone.

In other air action, U.S. Air Force jets attacked a major rail and road intersection 76 miles northwest of Hanoi, the Huong Vi rail yards 37 miles northeast of the capital and a highway bridge one mile farther north-east.

At a Saigon news conference today the U.S. Air Force commander in Vietnam, Lt. Gen. William Momyer declared that continued heavy bombing of North Vietnam and intense combat pressure in the South was the quickest way to win the war.

The two-story embassy building was shattered in front of crowds of people on Saigon streets this morning with an explosion heard throughout the center of Saigon. One wall was blown down, the ceiling collapsed and the ground floor was in ruins.

The raids on Haiphong Monday were the third since Sept. 11. All were aimed at four main targets within the city—two main bridges channeling traffic toward Hanoi, the main rail yard and a warehouse complex.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk repeated the Johnson administration stand Monday that the United States is ready to negotiate with Hanoi if the North Vietnamese indicate a readiness to do something constructive toward ending the war.

Rusk, speaking at a luncheon in Detroit, thus addressed himself indirectly to the furor that was touched off when Harry S. Ashmore, executive vice president of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, charged President Johnson wrecked a promising peace bid.

After a meeting with North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh in January, Ashmore said he drafted a letter to Ho sent through the State Department declaring U.S. readiness for secret talks with eased conditions. But shortly before Ashmore's letter arrived, Ho received a message from Johnson saying American bombing of the North would stop "as soon as I am assured that infiltration in South Vietnam by land and by sea has stopped."

Rosendale Fire District Topic of Tonight's Meeting

A hurriedly called meeting between the village and town of Rosendale tonight will be held in hopes of resolving fire district jurisdictions and preventing the loss of fire protection for the west district after midnight.

The village yesterday presented the town a hand-delivered request for a meeting in order that both the east and west districts, now temporarily covered by Bloomington and High Falls Fire Companies, might again be protected by the village under a contract with the town.

Until the village's prior contract with the town expired earlier this year, the village gave protection to both districts. Unable to reach new terms for the contract, the agreement was never renewed and Bloomington and High Falls companies pinch-hit for the time being. At midnight tonight however, High Falls responsibility ends as far as the west district is concerned.

Supervisor Gerard DeFelice expressed confidence this morning that the town and village will come to an agreement especially in regard to contract specifications including insurance premiums.

De Felice indicated that once an amicable agreement is reached, he will call a public hearing in order to determine which fire companies will protect which districts and what tax assessments will be made.

At a meeting of the town last night, members of the board passed Local Law No. 1 which will serve to implement a junk ordinance.

The new law provides that persons allowing junk cars on their property will be given 30 days notice to remove the vehicles. If the junk cars are not removed by the end of that period the town will order them removed and assess the property owner by adding the charges to their tax rolls.

Vote for Bond Issue

Local projects to be constructed with $2.5 billion transportation bond issue, which will appear as proposition No. 1 on the voting machine in the November general election, will include two or three airports in Ulster County and six in the four-county region.

In his plea for approval of the massive bond issue, Governor Rockefeller on his visit to this city pointed out that general aviation is growing fast. Increasingly, corporations have air facilities for the executive personnel. Therefore, in determining the location of a plant, they not only want good highway facilities for movement of their raw materials and finished products, but they want to locate next to an airport where their executives can get to Washington to get contracts, or they can bring in people for the purchase of their goods.

Additional air facilities are needed in Ulster County and in the other communities of the area for the expanding industrial plants.

Over half of the bond issue will be used to maintain the present pace of highway construction. Most of the road-building program is already on the map, which has been approved by the Legislature.

Under this total highway program for the next five years, Ulster County can expect to see a new bridge over the Rondout Creek, and modern highways in the Town of Ulster, Saugerties and Southern Ulster.

The governor in his appeal for approval of the bond issue declared that the money will be spent in direct proportion to the population of various geographical areas of the state.

The bond issue, which allocates $1.5 billion for highways, one billion for mass transportation and $250 million for aviation facilities, received overwhelming, bi-partisan approval in the Legislature.

Coupled with federal aid and funds provided by localities and public authorities, the bonds will finance $5.35 billion in needed improvements in the next five years.

The economic health of the residents of the state is contingent on the continued development of transportation facilities. This applies to all persons and regions of the state—urban, suburban and rural.

We endorse this bond issue to improve and modernize the state's system because it will make possible a comprehensive plan needed to handle the increasing amount of motor vehicle travel in all sections of the state.

Its tremendous importance for the future growth and development of Ulster County, the Hudson Valley and the entire state should insure its passage.

Billion for Ghettos

The nation's major life insurance companies invest some $16 billion a year in real estate and securities. Their decision to put $1 billion of it in rebuilding rundown urban areas is the first evidence of cooperation between private and public interests in rebuilding the nation's ghettos and providing work for slum dwellers to help them uplift their own areas.

The commitment was made by an insurance industry committee headed by Gilbert Fitzhugh, chairman of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The money will be subscribed among those of the 348 life insurance companies who wish to participate, on the basis of size. Metropolitan and Prudential, the two largest, each pledged $200 million.

Once this initial project is launched, then the insurance industry will look for other investment opportunities that will make work for ghetto residents. It will take each step "a billion at a time." The plan is open end, it can grow as large as the need requires and the experience in building and job making warrant.

The important thing is that a beginning will be made to involve private funds in rebuilding the slums, and creating jobs. In the past such money has not been available because of the high risk factor. The investment will be guaranteed by the federal government, but all the money will be put in by the insurance industry. It is to be hoped that low rents and rent controls will assure that ghetto residents can make use of the new residential and business buildings, so that they will not have to leave and crowd other ghetto areas before their new prosperity takes effect.

The insurance industry has been looking into opportunities to help meet the urban crisis since last January. It reached a decision in time to let the ghettos know that private industry cares.

To anyone who lived through Prohibition, the cycle around illegal cigarettes sounds familiar. First, New York complained it is losing $40 million a year to bootleggers bringing untaxed fags from North Carolina. Now, London reports bandits hijacked 9 million smokes worth $280,000 from the East London docks. It's the same old criminal pattern.

Steel Industry Is In Serious Trouble

WASHINGTON — The steel industry is in serious trouble. Congress is being urged to help it out by giving the president power to stabilize the imports of steel which have been depriving the American companies of approximately 12.5 per cent of domestic steel consumption. Textiles and dairy products have also been adversely affected by an increase in imports.

The situation in steel has arisen because foreign producers are enjoying much lower labor costs as well as the benefits of a gradual removal of tariff barriers by this country. At the same time, American export of products to other lands has been encountering trade restrictions.

The steel industry of this country has been trying in the last two years to get Congress to do something about the situation, but the efforts have thus far failed. It appears now that the steel companies may seek what has been called a more practical approach. Instead of requesting temporary levies or tariffs, the American companies are inclined to support a formula whereby steel imports would be limited by the establishment of quotas. There are some analysts who feel that the steel industry could compete in the long run with foreign producers if the imports were held at present levels. What steel men really fear is the possibility of losing 20 to 25 per cent of domestic production in the future if no restraints are applied at this time.

The most recent figures show that the steel industry has the lowest return on equity capital invested of any of the 35 leading industries in this country. The average for the last five years has been 7.6 per cent, as contrasted with a return of 14.4 per cent a decade ago.

Just the other day, Secretary of Commerce Trowbridge had a meeting with the heads of the leading steel companies, at which Gardner Ackley, chairman of the president's council of economic advisers, frowned upon the recent price increases and implied that extreme measures might be required if there were any further raises. The producers, however, made it clear that they have been left no choice but to move up their prices on selected products.

Some of the steel men call attention to the fact that the automobile industry has lifted its prices higher, relatively speaking, than have the steel companies. It is pointed out that, in an automobile selling for 3,000 dollars, the steel used costs only about 250 to 275 dollars. The automobile companies, however, have found it necessary to increase their prices even more than the added cost of steel because they, too, are confronted with higher labor costs. It is evident that the principal reason why automobiles are rising in price is not the higher cost of materials in the car but the increased labor costs of putting together an automobile.

Some of the basic steel products can be manufactured abroad and delivered today to any part of this country at a price which is less than the American companies can offer, even though the latter's only transportation charges are from plants within the United States. Foreign producers sold here during 1966 at least eleven million tons of steel, which represents approximately 75,000 jobs that would have been available to American steelworkers.

The administration has not yet shown concern over the plight of the steel industry. A surprising factor also is that more has not been heard from the labor unions about the threat which the steel industry faces. But they now are beginning to take a deeper interest in the subject.

Unlimited competition from abroad could gravely endanger the position of American steel companies, and, as their stocks became less attractive for purchase by the public, difficulties might be encountered in obtaining the capital needed for constant replacement of plant facilities.

There are evidences of a growing demand for action by Congress—at least to hold steady the volume of imports and to prevent any substantial increase in the future.

Buddhists Lucky No. 9

WASHINGTON — Senator George Murphy, R-Calif., one of the U. S. observers of the Vietnam elections, told Joey Bishop on ABC there was no question that the Vietnam election was conducted fairly. As evidence, he showed one of the election ballots.

The ballots were a sheaf of papers, each page with the photograph and description of a candidate for president and his vice presidential running mate.

Murphy told Bishop that if the military junta which ran Generals Thieu and Ky had really wanted to rig the election, their photographs would have been on the first page of the ballot. Instead, Murphy pointed out, they were in the middle of the ballot, on page nine.

But, like most Westerners who act like experts on the Far East, Sen. Murphy did not know that No. 9 is the magic number of oriental Buddhists. No. 9 in Vietnam symbolizes the nine heavens of Buddha, which meant that the Thieu-Ky ticket was presented to voters in the most favored position of all.

Thieu is a Catholic. Ironically, running in a country which is 80 per cent Buddhist, the Catholic tickets won 30 or more of the 60 senate seats. The Buddhists won none.

There are 17 million people in South Vietnam, of whom only 1,500,000 are Catholics, most of them refugees from North Vietnam who migrated south after the partition of the country in 1954 and after Cardinal Spellman persuaded President Eisenhower to launch the first American intervention with military advisers and foreign aid.

After the French departed in 1954, President Ngo Dinh Diem, a staunch Catholic who lived at Maryknoll, New York, dominated the country. In 1963 the Buddhists began to revolt; President Diem was assassinated.

Today South Vietnam is pretty much back where it was in President Diem's day, with both the presidency and the senate in control of Catholics, and part of this victory was obtained by the use of the Buddhist lucky number 9.

Sen. Dirksen's Power
The danger is: Will the Buddhists start more political trouble?

The public hasn't known about it, but the power of gnarled, eloquent Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican Leader, has been demonstrated in the Senate Commerce Committee for five long months. It's a power that affects the oil pipelines, natural gas, and the cost of electricity to the nation.

Sen. Dirksen is not a member of the Commerce Committee. Yet he has been able to reach his long arm into the committee to block the confirmation of Carl Bagge as Federal Power Commissioner for five long months.

The irony is that Bagge, a Chicago attorney, is Dirksen's man. LBJ appointed him in 1965 as a special favor to the Senate Republican leader because Dirksen had helped LBJ put across the Negro voting rights bill. His reward was to let Dirksen name his man to the Federal Power Commission, where he could influence national policy regarding oil and gas, public utilities, and hydroelectric projects of interest to Dirksen's friends and law clients.

The appointment was criticized by pro-consumer groups, but thanks to Dirksen's backing it sailed through the Senate with not one dissenting vote.

However, Commissioner Bagge proved a disappointment to the senior Senator from Illinois, through a blessing to the public. He developed into a conscientious defender of the public, called the shots as he saw them.

President Johnson, pleased, renominated Commissioner

Bagge for a full term on April 22, two months before his term expired on June 22. But Sen. Dirksen, originally pleased, this time was displeased. He couldn't stop the reappointment, but he did telephone Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, asking him to hold up confirmation. Magnuson delayed a month, then refused to delay further.

Senatorial Courtesy

At this point an interesting thing happened. Dirksen reached into the committee to the senior Republican, Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire. He asked Cotton to delay Bagge's confirmation.

Senatorial courtesy is strong in America's No. 1 club, Sen. Cotton obliged. He has kept delaying the confirmation for a total of five months. It is now three months since Commissioner Bagge's term expired on June 22, and there is still no action.

Republican members of the Senate Commerce Committee are getting to be a little red-faced about it. Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, a conscientious Republican, winces when Bagge's name is mentioned. So does Sen. Winston Prouty of Vermont. Nevertheless the influence of the gnarled Senator from Illinois, plus senatorial courtesy, prevails. A key member of the Federal Power Commission remains in a state of suspended animation while Republican members of the Commerce Committee—Cotton, Morton, Prouty, Hugh Scott, Pa., James Pearson, Kans., and Bob Griffin, Mich.—decide whether they're for Bagge and the public or for Dirksen and the big oil and gas companies.

Note: Commissioner Bagge was instrumental in writing the pipeline safety bill to protect residents living near gas pipelines from suffering from rusting pipes which explode. The pipeline safety bill is still in the same committee, but Sen. Magnuson is planning to report it favorably in the near future.

Sen. Fulbright's Memory On U.S. Wars Sounds Hazy

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, now anxious to curb the President's power in foreign affairs, is getting a little hard to follow if your memory is good. His own memory on American wars sounds hazy.

In 1961, in a speech which got little attention, Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, complained the President had too many restraints on him in foreign affairs.

"We have hobbled the President by too niggardly a grant of power," he said. He raised a question about what the Constitution, put together in 1787, says about the separation of powers between President and Congress in foreign affairs.

All it really says is that while Congress alone has the authority to declare war, the President is commander in chief of the armed forces and can make treaties with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, if two-thirds agree.

The founding Fathers didn't know much about foreign affairs and couldn't anticipate the complexities to come. For instance, instead of going through the formality and delay of getting Senate approval on a treaty, the Presidents have very often made simple agreements with other powers.

Foreign Policy
"The source of an effective foreign policy under our system is Presidential power," Fulbright said. He wondered whether it wasn't time for Congress to overhaul the Constitution's "18th century" procedures on foreign policy.

Now, in a statement copyrighted by Newsday, a New York newspaper, he complains "that the power of Congress in foreign policy has been diminishing throughout this century." He wants Congress to reassert its authority.

In 1954 Sen. John W. Bricker, R-Ohio, tried to cut the President's power by proposing a Constitutional amendment requiring Congressional approval by both Houses for treaties and executive agreements.

Fulbright voted against it, saying it was a "retreat from the world."

This summer Fulbright proposed and built his Newsday piece around it—this piece was just a re-write of a speech he made July 19—that the Senate pass a resolution that Congress as well as the President must approve not only treaties but executive agreements and commitments made by the President.

Beyond Requirement
This is completely foggy, since the resolution doesn't

say whether the Senate or both House and Senate should be given such authority in foreign affairs but it goes way beyond the simple "Advice and consent" requirement of treaties alone in the Constitution.

If the Senate approved, Johnson would probably ignore it since a resolution doesn't have the effect of law. If he obeyed it, it would truly hobble him.

In 1961, the day before making his complaint that the President didn't have enough power, Fulbright came away from seeing President John F. Kennedy at the White House, saying he endorsed the use of U. S. military forces—if considered necessary—to prevent South Vietnam from being overrun by the Communists.

But now, Fulbright, one of the Senate's "doves" on the war in Vietnam, is Johnson's most constant critic on that conflict. After North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked U. S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1964, Johnson asked Congress to pass a resolution approving his use of the armed forces in Vietnam to stop aggression if necessary. Both houses approved overwhelmingly.

Tonkin Gulf Resolution
Fulbright was in charge of getting the resolution through and, when asked if he thought it gave the President enough authority to get into a war in Vietnam, he said that was how he interpreted it. Now he says he didn't realize the full significance of the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

In the Newsday piece Fulbright complained that in this century presidents have been making war without a declaration by Congress. But he is against rescinding the Gulf of Tonkin resolution. He forgot something in the Newsday statement. He said the exclusive authority for Congress to initiate was "substantially respected in the 19th century."

But there were two undeclared wars in the 19th century and one in the 18th: From 1798 to 1800 this country was in an undeclared naval war with France, from 1801 to 1805 and again in 1815 this country was at war with the pirates of Tripoli and the Barbary Coast.

Office by Default
Editor, The Freeman:

On Saturday, September 9, I went to the Republican Caucus in the Town of Marlborough. It was a sad affair. Of the 1,014 registered Republicans, 139 turned out. The incumbents nominated each other for the most part, with absolutely no opposition.

On Monday, September 11, the Democrats held their caucus. Of the 362 registered Democrats, 23 were present, and there were no candidates.

Therefore, the Democrats gave the election to the Republicans! 1,376 people let 139 people choose who will govern their town, and the 139 went along with the status quo.

From this it would seem that the incumbents are the only ones public minded enough to accept the responsibility, and if they ran and were re-elected, fine. However, to take office by default is neither a compliment nor an incentive. They know they are running an apathetic town and if no one else wants the job, it isn't very flattering to them.

We all know there are plenty of people in Marlborough who are qualified to be on the Town Board. Competition is healthy because it keeps everyone on his toes. Nominees have to campaign and tell the people why they are the ones who should be elected. It is evident that the situation in Marlborough is not very healthy.

There will be no election of town officials this year, and I can only hope that the disgrace will awaken the people to their responsibilities.

Very truly yours

Erosion of American Spirit

Radicals Redefine Democracy

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The American spirit is being corrupted in the name of preserving it.

It is easy to talk of corruption in its normal definition, and there is ample evidence of its heaving growth in this country.

The more pervasive erosion, which in a critical sense underlines the other, eats away steadily at this nation's bulwarking ideas, of freedom and democracy.

Earlier this year great alarm was voiced in some quarters when conservative elements drew close to forcing a U. S. constitutional convention which, it was felt, might somehow recast basic American freedoms in more constructed form.

Whatever else may be said about this undertaking, it at least follows formal procedure set forth in the Constitution.

Astonishingly other elements in U. S. society are endeavoring to engage in trying arbitrarily, without the thinnest pretense of legality, to redefine democracy and freedom in the most drastic fashion.

The new left, some parts of the intellectual and academic communities which stand aside from it, and some parts of the radical right seek to alter or negate the Constitution by various devices of direct action not contemplated by that document.

In effect, they would have the Constitution read that, if and when the results reached in this country by the agreed legislative or executive government processes do not please any group (however small and limited it may be), it may try to overturn the verdict by some tactic of force—assault upon public officials, disruption of government activities, calculated interference with established procedure.

False Parallels

The revolutionary character of this tactic is not denied but is, instead, stoutly affirmed by its advocates. They build comfort from false parallels with colonial Americans who revolted nearly 200 years ago.

But there is no way to have a government and yet revolt against it. What the revolutionaries of 1967 urge has nothing to do with democracy, representative government or freedom as established here.

Their tactic would give to any limited group, of the right, the left or whatever, the absolutely veto that goes with violent disruption. As a doctrine, it provides license for the militant few to set aside any decision taken by a representative government or its elected executives.

No phrases like "participatory democracy" or "creative disorder" can cloak the anarchic and thoroughly undemocratic nature of this approach to political life. These are fancy words glorifying instability and impermanence in a nation and a world that must constantly adjust to change without allowing themselves to be engulfed by it. They speak for the mercurial, for the shifting sand, at a time when hundreds of millions of people search for the rock and the anchor to tie to.

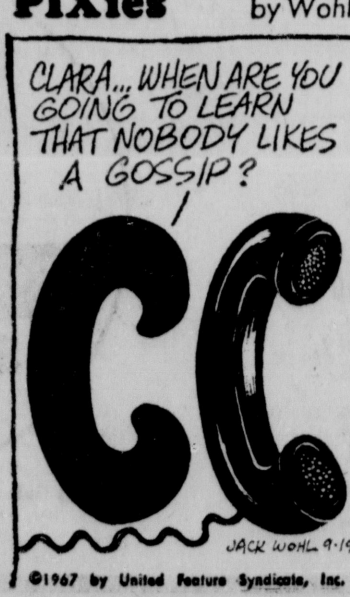

They Want Power

Raising legitimate cry against the too-bigness of everything in today's America, these revolutionaries ask that power be turned back to them at the more intimate local level. But their prescription for this would so fragment power as to destroy its meaning for society.

They seek a life of license, not liberty. They want to be left altogether alone—free of real authority, uncured by law and, indeed, by any sort of code or standard in any field of life.

But they would not be free. For the chaos they would thus contrive is itself a "system," though different from the one they hate. They would thereafter suffer the painful tyranny of disorder, never knowing day to day who or how long it might last. Waving the placard of "freedom's health," they would find society in near-fatal disrepair.

Some of the basic steel products can be manufactured abroad and delivered today to any part of this country at a price which is less than the American companies can offer, even though the latter's only transportation charges are from plants within the United States. Foreign producers sold here during 1966 at least eleven million tons of steel, which represents approximately 75,000 jobs that would have been available to American steelworkers.

The administration has not yet shown concern over the plight of the steel industry. A surprising factor also is that more has not been heard from the labor unions about the threat which the steel industry faces. But they now are beginning to take a deeper interest in the subject.

Unlimited competition from abroad could gravely endanger the position of American steel companies, and, as their stocks became less attractive for purchase by the public, difficulties might be encountered in obtaining the capital needed for constant replacement of plant facilities.

There are evidences of a growing demand for action by Congress—at least to hold steady the volume of imports and to prevent any substantial increase in the future.

Erosion of American Spirit

Radicals Redefine Democracy

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The American spirit is being corrupted in the name of preserving it.

It is easy to talk of corruption in its normal definition, and there is ample evidence of its heeding growth in this country.

The more pervasive erosion, which in a critical sense undercuts the other, eats away steadily at this nation's bulwarking ideas, of freedom and democracy.

Earlier this year great alarm was voiced in some quarters when conservative elements drew close to forcing a U.S. constitutional convention which, it was felt, might somehow recast basic American freedoms in more constructed form.

Whatever else may be said about this undertaking, it at least follows formal procedure set forth in the Constitution.

Astonishingly, other elements in U.S. society are meantime engaged in trying arbitrarily, without the thinnest pretense of legality, to redefine democracy and freedom in the most drastic fashion.

The new left, some parts of the intellectual and academic communities which stand aside from it, and some parts of the radical right seek to alter or negate the Constitution by various devices of direct action not contemplated by that document.

In effect, they would have the Constitution read that, if and when the results reached in this country by the agreed legislative or executive government processes do not please any group (however small and limited it may be), it may try to overturn the verdict by some tactic of force—assault upon public officials, disruption of government activities, calculated interference with established procedure.

False Parallels
The revolutionary character of this tactic is not denied but is, instead, stoutly affirmed by its advocates. They build comfort from false parallels with colonial Americans who revolted nearly 200 years ago.

But there is no way to have a government and yet revolt against it. What the revolutionaries of 1967 urge has nothing to do with democracy, representative government or freedom as established here.

Their tactic would give to any limited group, of the right, the left or whatever, the absolutely veto that goes with violent disruption. As a doctrine, it provides license for the militant few to set aside any decision taken by a representative government or its elected executives.

No phrases like "participatory democracy" or "creative disorder" can cloak the anarchic and thoroughly undemocratic nature of this approach to political life. These are fancy words glorifying instability and impermanence in a nation and a world that must constantly adjust to change without allowing themselves to be engulfed by it. They speak for the mercurial, for the shifting sand, at a time when hundreds of millions of people search for the rock and the anchor to tie to.

They Want Power
Raising legitimate cry against the too-bigness of everything in today's America, these revolutionaries ask that power be turned back to them at the more intimate local level. But their prescription for this would so fragment power as to destroy its meaning for society.

They seek a life of license, not liberty. They want to be left altogether alone—free of left authority, uncured by law and, indeed, by any sort of code or standard in any field of life. But they would not be free. For the chaos they would thus contrive is itself a "system," though different from the one they hate. They would thereafter suffer the painful tyranny of disorder, never knowing day to day who really made what decision or how long it might last. Waving the placard of "freedom's health," they would find society in near-fatal disrepair.

CLARA... WHEN ARE YOU GOING TO LEARN THAT NOBODY LIKES A GOSSIP?

Drew Pearson Says

Buddhists Lucky No. 9

WASHINGTON — Senator George Murphy, R-Calif., one of the U.S. observers of the Vietnam elections, told Joey Bishop on ABC there was no question that the Vietnam election was conducted fairly. As evidence, he showed one of the election ballots.

The ballots were a sheet of papers, each page with the photograph and description of a candidate for president and his vice presidential running mate.

Murphy told Bishop that if the military junta which ran Generals Thieu and Ky had really wanted to rig the election, their photographs would have been on the first page of the ballot. Instead, Murphy pointed out, they were in the middle of the ballot, on page nine.

But, like most Westerners who act like experts on the Far East, Sen. Murphy did not know that No. 9 is the magic number of oriental Buddhists. No. 9 in Vietnam symbolizes the nine heavens of Buddha, which meant that the Thieu-Ky ticket was presented to voters in the most favored position of all.

Thieu is a Catholic. Ironically, running in a country which is 80 per cent Buddhist, the Catholic tickets won 30 or more of the 60 senate seats. The Buddhists won none.

There are 17 million people in South Vietnam, of whom only 1,500,000 are Catholics, most of them refugees from North Vietnam who migrated south after the partition of the country in 1954 and after Cardinal Spellman persuaded President Eisenhower to launch the first military advisers and foreign aid.

After the French departed in 1954, President Ngo Dinh Diem, a staunch Catholic who lived at Maryknoll, New York, dominated the country. In 1963 the Buddhists began to revolt; President Diem was assassinated.

Today South Vietnam is pretty much back where it was in President Diem's day, with both the presidency and the senate in control of Catholics, and part of this victory was obtained by the use of the Buddhist lucky number 9.

Sen. Dirksen's Power
The danger is: Will the Buddhists start more political trouble?

The public hasn't known about it, but the power of gnarled, eloquent Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican Leader, has been demonstrated in the Senate Commerce Committee for five long months. It's a power that affects the oil pipelines, natural gas, and the cost of electricity to the nation.

Sen. Dirksen is not a member of the Commerce Committee. Yet he has been able to reach his long arm into the committee to block the confirmation of Carl Bagge as Federal Power Commissioner for five long months.

The irony is that Bagge, a Chicago attorney, is Dirksen's man. LBJ appointed him in 1965 as a special favor to the Senate Republican leader because Dirksen had helped LBJ put across the Negro voting rights bill. His reward was to let Dirksen name his man to the Federal Power Commission, where he could influence national policy regarding oil and gas, public utilities, and hydroelectric projects of interest to Dirksen's friends and law clients.

The appointment was criticized by pro-consumer groups, but thanks to Dirksen's backing it sailed through the Senate with not one dissenting vote.

However, Commissioner Bagge proved a disappointment to the senior Senator from Illinois, through a blessing to the public. He developed into a conscientious defender of the public, calling the shenanigans as he saw them.

President Johnson, pleased, renominated Commissioner

Bagge for a full term on April 22, two months before his term expired on June 22. But Sen. Dirksen, originally pleased, this time was displeased. He couldn't stop the reappointment, but he did telephone Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, asking him to hold up confirmation. Magnuson delayed a month, then refused to delay further.

Senatorial Courtesy

At this point an interesting thing happened. Dirksen reached into the committee to the senior Republican, Sen. Norris Cotton of New Hampshire. He asked Cotton to delay Bagge's confirmation.

Senatorial courtesy is strong in America's No. 1 club. Sen. Cotton obliged. He has kept delaying the confirmation for a total of five months. It is now three months since Commissioner Bagge's term expired on June 22, and there is still no action.

Republican members of the senate Commerce Committee are getting to be a little red-faced about it. Sen. Thurston Morton of Kentucky, a conscientious Republican, winces when Bagge's name is mentioned. So does Sen. Winston Prouty of Vermont. Nevertheless the influence of the gnarled Senator from Illinois, plus senatorial courtesy, prevails. A key member of the Federal Power Commission remains in a state of suspended animation while Republican members of the Commerce Committee—Cotton, Morton, Prouty, Hugh Scott, Pa., James Pearson, Kans., and Bob Griffin, Mich.—decide whether they're for Bagge and the public or for Dirksen and the big oil and gas companies.

Note: Commissioner Bagge was instrumental in writing the pipeline safety bill to protect residents living near gas pipelines from suffering from rusting pipes which explode. The pipeline safety bill is still in the same committee, but Sen. Magnuson is planning to report it favorably in the near future.

Sen. Fulbright's Memory On U.S. Wars Sounds Hazy

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, now anxious to curb the President's power in foreign affairs, is getting a little hard to follow if your memory is good. His own memory on American wars sounds hazy.

In 1961, in a speech which got little attention, Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the Senate's Foreign Relations Committee, complained the President had too many restraints on him in foreign affairs.

"We have hobbled the President by too niggardly a grant of power," he said.

He raised a question about what the Constitution, put together in 1787, says about the separation of powers between President and Congress in foreign affairs.

All it really says is that while Congress alone has the authority to declare war, the President is commander in chief of the armed forces and can make treaties with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, if two-thirds agree.

The founding Fathers didn't know much about foreign affairs and couldn't anticipate the complexities to come. For instance, instead of going through the formality and delay of getting Senate approval on a treaty, the Presidents have very often made simple agreements with other powers.

Foreign Policy

"The source of an effective foreign policy under our system is Presidential power," Fulbright said. He wondered whether it wasn't time for Congress to overhaul the Constitution's "18th century" procedures on foreign policy.

Now, in a statement copyrighted by Newsday, a New York newspaper, he complains "that the power of Congress in foreign policy has been diminishing throughout this century." He wants Congress to reassert its authority.

In 1954 Sen. John W. Bricker, R-Ohio, tried to cut the President's power by proposing a Constitutional amendment requiring Congressional approval by both Houses for treaties and executive agreements.

Fulbright voted against it, saying it was a "retreat from the world."

This summer Fulbright proposed and built his Newsday piece around it—this piece was just a re-write of a speech he made July 19—that the Senate pass a resolution that Congress as well as the President must approve not only treaties but executive agreements and commitments made by the President.

Beyond Requirement
This is completely foggy, since the resolution doesn't say whether the Senate or both House and Senate should be given such authority in foreign affairs but it goes way beyond the simple "Advice and consent" requirement of treaties alone in the Constitution.

If the Senate approved, Johnson would probably ignore it since a resolution doesn't have the effect of law. If he obeyed it, it would truly hobble him.

In 1961, the day before making his complaint that the President didn't have enough power, Fulbright came away from seeing President John F. Kennedy at the White House, saying he endorsed the use of U.S. military forces—if considered necessary—to prevent South Vietnam from being overrun by the Communists.

But now, Fulbright, one of the Senate's "doves" on the war in Vietnam, is Johnson's most constant critic on that conflict. After North Vietnamese torpedo boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin in 1964, Johnson asked Congress to pass a resolution approving his use of the armed forces in Vietnam to stop aggression if necessary.

Both houses approved overwhelmingly.

Tonkin Gulf Resolution

Fulbright was in charge of getting the resolution through and, when asked if he thought it gave the President enough authority to get into a war in Vietnam, he said that was how he interpreted it. Now he says he didn't realize the full significance of the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

In the Newsday piece Fulbright complained that in this century presidents have been making war without a declaration by Congress. But he is against rescinding the Gulf of Tonkin resolution. He forgot something in the Newsday statement. He said the exclusive authority for Congress to initiate was was "substantially respected in the 19th century."

But there were two undeclared wars in the 19th century and one in the 18th: From 1798 to 1800 this country was in an undeclared naval war with France, from 1801 to 1805 and again in 1815 this country was at war with the pirates of Tripoli and the Barbary Coast.

Office by Default
Editor, The Freeman:

On Saturday, September 9, I went to the Republican Caucus in the Town of Marlborough. It was a sad affair. Of the 1,014 registered Republicans, 139 turned out. The incumbents nominated each other for the most part, with absolutely no opposition.

On Monday, September 11, the Democrats held their caucus. Of the 362 registered Democrats, 23 were present, and there were no candidates! Therefore, the Democrats gave the election to the Republicans! 1,376 people let 139 people choose who will govern their town, and the 139 went along with the status quo.

From this it would seem that the incumbents are the only ones public minded enough to accept the responsibility, and if they ran and were re-elected, fine. However, to take office by default is neither a compliment nor an incentive. They know they are running an apathetic town and if no one else wants the job, it isn't very flattering to them.

We all know there are plenty of people in Marlborough who are qualified to be on the Town Board. Competition is healthy because it keeps everyone on his toes. Nominees have to campaign and tell the people why they are the one who should be elected. The people have a choice. It is evident that the situation in Marlborough is not very healthy.

There will be no election of town officials this year, and I can only hope that the disgrace will awaken the people to their responsibilities.

UCCC Registrations Termed Encouraging

President George B. Erbstein today said the results of the first three days of registration at Ulster County Community College are highly encouraging, but noted there still are openings in a variety of courses for part-time evening students.

These part-time student openings are in the evening courses at the Stone Ridge campus, the Kingston Classroom Building, Ellenville and Saugerties High Schools and the Woodstock Elementary School.

"Adults should decide what courses they wish and register early this week," President Erbstein said, "in order not to miss any classes."

There will be late registration on both the college's Stone Ridge campus and at the Kingston Classroom Building. The hours are 6:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Thursday at both locations.

President Erbstein said more than 800 full-time students already have registered for classes, while the part-time registration is more than 600 students.

State Police Sergeant Stanley Kowalik of the Highland Substation, said Trooper Jack Ostmark investigated a complaint Monday involving the burglary which occurred sometime early Monday.

Stolen from the church, according to Kowalik, was a shirt, cigarette lighter and a pair of shoes.

Ostmark, who took over investigation of the complaint with BCI officers, was on patrol on Route 9W later in the day when he spotted a man walking along the highway. He also noticed the shirt the pedestrian was wearing, which resembled the one taken from the Esopus church.

Ostmark questioned the man later identified as James Patrick, 40, of Philadelphia, who was booked for burglary third degree. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus, Patrick was ordered committed to the county jail to await grand jury action.

But when Lt. E. H. Coffee and Patrolman Elbert Bell arrived Sunday night, they found Harvey Hopkins, 40, of Catlettsburg, alive and unharmed—not even a greasespot from the two diesel units and 40 cars.

Shirt Figures In Esopus Area Church Break-in

State Police Sergeant Stanley Kowalik of the Highland station, said Trooper Jack Ostmark investigated a complaint Monday involving the burglary which occurred sometime early Monday.

Stolen from the church, according to Kowalik, was a shirt, cigarette lighter and a pair of shoes.

pedestrian was wearing, which resembled the one taken from the Esopus church.

Ostmark questioned the man later identified as James Patrick, 40, of Philadelphia, who was booked for burglary third degree. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver, Town of Esopus, Patrick was ordered committed to the county jail to await grand jury action.

Constitutional Convention

Will By-Pass Voters on Bonds

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Democratic-controlled Constitutional Convention voted today to by-pass New York voters on state bond-borrowing proposals after reviving debate on the church-state issue.

Glimpsing a 13-hour session — the lengthiest of the convention thus far — Democratic delegates forced initial passage early today of a plan that would authorize the Legislature — instead of the voters — to decide ultimately whether the state should borrow through bonds.

Republicans tried unsuccessfully to amend the proposition to retain the direct control of the electorate now holds over bond-issue plans, then saw the Democratic plan pass by a vote of 95-72.

Democrats obtained one vote more than they needed to have their way, since convention rules require 94 "yes" votes for passage of a proposition.

The adjournment-minded convention took that action after voting initial approval of a plan to authorize communities across the state to raise their property-tax and debt ceilings.

The proposed change in borrowing restrictions is the most controversial provision in a Democratic program that would relax present constitutional provisions on bonded indebtedness and on gifts or loans of public funds.

The object of these two proposals is to permit the state to provide financial assistance to private enterprises willing to construct housing and undertake other projects designed to rehabilitate city slum districts.

A third, related proposal on today's calendar would liberalize the provisions on gifts and loans of government money.

While the approval of a plan or possible higher tax and debt limits dominated action on the local finance article of the model charter, the convention took several other important steps.

The local finance article passed Monday would:

— Remove the requirement for a statewide vote on requests by individual communities for increased taxing authority.

— Permit local governments, under specific stipulations, to base their taxing and borrowing limits on a percentage of property values over the latest three-year period. The present base is the latest five-year period.

Local governments would, under terms of the amended measure adopted Monday, be required to obtain permission from the Legislature and then conduct a local referendum before they could switch to a three-year average.

Before voting approval of the bond-borrowing revision plan, the Convention defeated an amendment to the proposal that sparked fresh debate on the church-state issue.

It was touched off when the Rev. Donald S. Harrington, chairman of the State Liberal Party, proposed expressly to bar use of state funds for help in constructing buildings for sectarian institutions.

That move prompted renewed debate involving many of the advocates and foes of repeal of the so-called Blaine Amendment to the state Constitution. The Blaine Amendment prohibits use of state funds directly or indirectly to aid church-related institutions.

Since the Convention already has given initial approval to a proposal to repeal Blaine, the renewed debate on the issue emerged as somewhat of a surprise.

DA, FBI Agent Nab Man After Robbery

A 26-year-old former armored car guard from Wyoming figured in an impromptu western drama Monday in Monticello when he allegedly staged a bold, daylight robbery of two cashiers at a supermarket in that Sullivan County community, and made a temporary getaway with about $400 in cash.

The daring of the accused holdup man, who investigation later disclosed was armed with a toy pistol, ended when he was apprehended not far from the Victory Supermarket on Broadway by District Attorney Robert C. Williams of Sullivan County and Special Agent Lee Lowery of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Held in the county jail facing grand jury action on a robbery charge was Ray F. Korhonen, of Torrington, Wyo.

According to authorities Korhonen had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the supermarket for hours yesterday. Police said the man was staying at a nearby motel. Employees of the store and patrons of the supermarket later recalled they had seen the man with his face swathed in bandages, with only his mouth and eyes showing.

At about 4:30 p. m. the man entered the market and walked up to the cashier's booth, it was alleged. He made the curt announcement to Mrs. Agelina Hill and Barbara Stanton, store cashiers, that "This is a stickup, put all your money in this paper bag."

One of the women doubted the stranger and said, "You are kidding," it was reported. The man, later identified and booked as Korhonen assured the women he was not kidding and he wanted them to give him the cash.

Authorities said about $400 in cash was dumped in the paper bag and the face-bandaged man turned and hurried from the market, making his way through many customers. After he left, an alarm was sent out and police converged on the scene.

District Attorney Williams who was attracted by an alarm, saw the man, who had returned to the market area after going to his motel room and removing the bandages and disguise. Williams shouted to FBI Agent Lowery who was nearby and the two men apprehended Korhonen.

Arraigned before a justice of the peace on a charge of robbery, Korhonen waived preliminary examination. He was remanded to the county jail without bail and the case was referred to the grand jury for investigation.

According to Monticello reports, Korhonen was just passing through the Sullivan County community and apparently realized he needed money. The alleged robbery followed.

A report from Middletown newsman stated that prior to yesterday's holdup, a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Korhonen on complaint of a Liberty hotel manager, who said the man had left the hotel without paying his bill.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

By JIM GILPATRICK

Did you identify the two paragraphs we quoted here last week? They were the first two paragraphs in The Declaration of Independence. Here's the sequel we promised you—

A select group of senior honor students from a Midwest high school, with teacher approval and supervision, named themselves "The American Traditions Association"—to conduct a reaction survey. The mythical organization prepared a petition with a short, harmless introduction, and then quoted the two paragraph excerpts from The Declaration of Independence. The students, neatly dressed, courteously invited 362 people to sign it. 167 signed; many without reading it, . . . 121 failed to recognize the words. Some people called the students "Comies" and "subversives" . . . Two persons called the police. . . Of the 195 who refused to sign, many gave ridiculous reasons to explain their refusal—such as: "This is for the draft-card burner" . . . It's kids like you who belong in Vietnam!" . . . "Two many double negatives, too wordy!" . . . "I know it's The Declaration of Independence, but I don't believe in it!" . . . "I'm not for Goldwater!" . . . What's the big idea? We fought a war over this already. I'd sign if this was 1492!" . . . "What are your parents' names; why are they letting you do this?" . . . And so on—and on.

Lets face it! Isn't it shocking such a large percentage of people failed to recognize one of the most important documents in American history?

The "Loyalty Day" parade, scheduled to be conducted in Kingston Saturday, has changed its starting point from Delaware and Hasbrouck Avenues to the parking area at the rear of Kingston High School.

Gerard Kelder Jr., parade chairman, made the announcement today and reminded participating units to enter the parking lot from Peter Street. Kelder said the staging area would be marked with signs. Units slated to march in the parade will line-up at 10 a. m. and will begin their trek to Dietz Memorial Stadium at 10:45 a. m., Kelder concluded.

To date 30 units intend to participate in the parade. Roughly this constitutes 1,000 persons.

The parade, however, is not in support of the Vietnamese War, Kelder said. "I want to make that absolutely clear. The parade is in support of our men and women serving in the

Fort Henry To Be Rebuilt

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP) — Fort William Henry, damaged extensively Sunday night by fire, will be rebuilt, the fort's board of directors said Monday.

The fort, a tourist attraction, was expected to be re-opened next June.

Robert Flack, corporation president, said most of the artifacts had been saved from the fort, which had been reconstructed in the 1950s at the cost of up to $1 million.

Svirsky to Manage Smith's Campaign

George Svirsky, campaign chairman for Republican-Liberal candidate for mayor of Kingston, C. John Bechtold, will also manage the campaign for Louis C. Smith, candidate for alderman-at-large.

Svirsky did not resign as president of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, but left because his term was up. The campaign chairman is presently a director of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Kingston.

Pleads Innocent

A 44-year old Kingston man, charged with harassment, appeared in City Court today and pleaded innocent. He was released in his own custody until Saturday to obtain counsel.

James J. Miller of 107 Henry Street, was arrested by police Monday on a complaint issued by a young girl. The alleged offense is reported to have taken place Sept. 8. The defendant told the court today he was innocent.

Two Incendiary Fires Under Probe in City

Incendiary fires kept Kingston firemen hopping Monday.

According to firemen, engines were called to the corner of Newkirk and Hasbrouck Avenues early Monday afternoon where smoke was flowing from a deserted house. The time was 1:44 p. m.

Firemen said the house, located at 68 Newkirk Avenue and owned by Kingston's Urban Renewal Agency, was a two-story frame. Authorities disclosed the fire resulted from a burning mattress.

All windows to the house were boarded with plywood, firemen said, and that entrance was gained by forcing the door. The mattress was located in an upstairs bedroom and had been set afire, officials concluded.

Later, at 5:35 p. m., engines were dispatched to the Morton Salt Co., located at 127 Tremper Avenue. A canvas awning, used to cover road salt, had been set ablaze, firemen said.

Police said they are investigating both fires.

Gives Closeup of Average Female Hippie on College Campus

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — She wears her hair long and her skirts short and her eyes are wise, sad, glazed but still innocent.

She is a seeker after simplicity but her life is an endless complication. Her creed is to hurt no one but she constantly hurts herself. Life, she says, is pain; and suicide she accepts as an option for later, but not now. There is too much life yet to be tasted; too many experiments yet to be tried; too much pain to sift for meaning.

Her name, not her real name, is Ursula. Girls who resemble her are returning to campuses all across the nation this month. They are part of a growing army of the alienated.

Ursula spent her summer in Canada. She thought it would be cool to spend time observing the profusion of symbols of the mechanized, computerized society she can't abide.

Boredom set in and sent her to Mexico. She could have gone to London or Athens or Paris. That will come later.

Her life is a conscious pursuit of the individual self but her style falls into a shared pattern of pot, promiscuity and petty crime. She is stamped a hippie and judged. Dropping out of one society, she drops into another.

Ursula is tall, rawboned and nearly beautiful. In her freshman year in college, she had started out to be a psychiatrist, she began sleeping with a graduate student. He moved on. She began sleeping around. She still considers herself innocent but adds with a touch of sadness, "I find myself constantly redefining what I mean by innocence."

The daughter of professional people, Ursula's intelligence is in the 150s. She was a leading student in her high school class. She was active in school clubs. She liked science. She liked drama.

But in college something happened. "I became aware, I became open, I began to search for myself," she said. Ursula's parents were of little help to her even before college. Her home life was painful. Her mother had lovers. Her father had mistresses. Eventually, they had a divorce. Ursula doesn't blame them. She doesn't pity herself. She says she accepts, she understands, she forgives. Her anger is reserved for less personal things—the war in Vietnam, racial hatred.

God or the traditional idea of God is irrelevant to her. The solace to be plucked from a cold and barren universe is love and love alone. "I want to write. I want to write a long novel about love," she said as a freshman. She is now a junior and she has collected her material. But the energy for the long novel isn't there. So she writes poetry, love poetry, but talks with contempt of her lovers.

At a party, she danced in bare feet and wore flowers in her hair. The windows were open, but the smell of pot was there. Her friends sat on the floor and devoured a watermelon as if it were the source of life. Ursula danced and danced, and her loneliness was utter.

God or the traditional idea of God is irrelevant to her. The solace to be plucked from a cold and barren universe is love and love alone. "I want to write. I want to write a long novel about love," she said as a freshman. She is now a junior and she has collected her material. But the energy for the long novel isn't there. So she writes poetry, love poetry, but talks with contempt of her lovers.

Ursula's parents were of little help to her even before college. Her home life was painful. Her mother had lovers. Her father had mistresses. Eventually, they had a divorce. Ursula doesn't blame them. She doesn't pity herself. She says she ac-

Gives Closeup of Average Female Hippie on College Campus

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — She wears her hair long and her skirts short and her eyes are wise, sad, glazed but still innocent.

She is a seeker after simplicity but her life is an endless complication. Her creed is to hurt no one but she constantly hurts herself. Life, she says, is pain; and suicide she accepts as an option for later, but not now. There is too much life yet to be tasted; too many experiments yet to be tried; too much pain to sift for meaning. Her name, not her real name, is Ursula.

Girls who resemble her are returning to campuses all across the nation this month. They are part of a growing army of the alienated.

Ursula spent her summer in Canada. She thought it would be cool to spend time observing the profusion of symbols of the mechanized, computerized society she can't abide.

Boredom set in and sent her to Mexico.

She could have gone to London or Athens or Paris. That will come later.

Her life is a conscious pursuit of the individual self but her style falls into a shared pattern of pot, promiscuity and petty crime. She is stamped a hippie and judged. Dropping out of one society, she drops into another.

Ursula is tall, rawboned and nearly beautiful. In her freshman year in college, she had started out to be a psychiatrist, she began sleeping with a graduate student. He moved on. She began sleeping around. She still considers herself innocent

The daughter of professional people, Ursula's intelligence quotient is in the 150s. She was a leading student in her high school class. She was active in school clubs. She liked science. She liked drama.

But in college something happened. "I became aware. I became open. I began to search for myself," she said.

Ursula's parents were of little help to her even before college.

Her home life was painful. Her mother had lovers. Her father had mistresses. Eventually, they had a divorce. Ursula doesn't blame them. She doesn't pity herself. She says she accepts, she understands, she forgives. Her anger is reserved for less personal things—the war in Vietnam, racial hatred.

God or the traditional idea of God is irrelevant to her. The solace to be plucked from a cold and barren universe is love and love alone. "I want to write. I want to write a long novel about love," she said as a freshman.

She is now a junior and she has collected her material. But the energy for the long novel isn't there. So she writes poetry, love poetry, but talks with contempt of her lovers.

At a party, she danced in bare feet and wore flowers in her hair. The windows were open, but the smell of pot was there.

Her friends sat on the floor and devoured a watermelon as if it were the source of life.

Ursula danced and danced, and her loneliness was utter.

Innocent Plea in Whitney Case

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) —

Frank Barnes, 43, of Amityville, pleaded innocent in State

Supreme Court Monday to charges of attempted grand larceny and attempted extortion in connection with the theft of $781,800 in jewelry from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius

Vanderbilt Whitney.

Barnes, who was indicted last week, is accused of attempting to obtain $35,000 from the Whitneys' for information leading to the return of the jewelry. He was arrested Aug. 12 in a tele-

port in New York City.

The jewelry was taken Aug. 2 from the Whitney estate in nearby Saratoga Springs.

4 Injured, 2 Cited In County Mishaps

Four persons were injured and two motorists were cited for violations as the result of motor vehicle accidents investigated Monday and early today by Kingston State Police.

Lawrence Dibbo, 26, of 62 Summit Avenue, sustained lacerations of the head and neck injuries at 2:20 a. m. today when his car failed to make a left curve on Route 375 near West Hurley and went down an embankment. Trooper Fred Cooper said Dibbo was treated at Benedictine Hospital.

At 11:55 p. m. Monday cars operated by Richard Myers, 17, of 232 Partition Street, Saugerties, and Edwin Luther, 19, Rf. 3, Saugerties, were involved in a collision on the Maiden Turnpike.

According to State Police both vehicles were traveling east when Myers attempted to pass the Luther vehicle and the cars collided. The Myers car continued off the road and knocked down a utility pole. Trooper Cooper reported.

Myers was taken to Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service and treated for lacerations of the face and mouth. He was cited by troopers for unsafe operation of a motor vehicle. The summons is returnable later before Justice of the Peace Justice Calvin Cady, Town of Saugerties.

Cars operated by Peter Greco, 40, of RD 1, Catskill, and Severny Hasbrouck, 23, RD 3, Kingston, were in collision shortly after noon Monday on Morton Boulevard south of Route 199, Town of Ulster, according to Trooper Cooper.

Greco was driving south and slowed for another vehicle when the mishap occurred. Cooper said Severny Hasbrouck was summoned to appear later before Justice of the Peace Justice A. Reilly, Town of Esopus, for driving too closely.

At 7:10 p. m. yesterday cars operated by Elwood Stalhut, 23, of West Hurley, and Edward Felipe, 17, of 9 Church Street, Ruby, were in collision at the Big Scot parking lot, according to state police at Kingston.

Stalhut received contusions of the chest. Joyce Stalhut, 18, sustained contusions of the left arm. Both were treated at Kingston Hospital, troopers reported.

When a 1966 Plymouth car was found parked on the western end of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge last August 15 and the operator missing, Sheriff William B. Martin called on "Yank" Albrecht's expert services. Albrecht spent several days with his boat and grappling equipment searching the water in the belief that the operator of the car had fallen or jumped from the bridge. When a check to compensate Albrecht for his several days' service was sent him, it was returned.

Capt. "Yank's" remarks were that he was "glad to do a service for his country" and "would do it anytime when he could be of service." Captain Albrecht now resides in retirement at 74 West Union Street.

A sample by-law was reviewed and a preliminary draft will be prepared for further discussion at the next meeting, Wednesday, Oct. 11.

A general discussion on the scope of the board's work was held. It was agreed that a representative of Saugerties Village Planning Board would be invited to attend the township board's meetings.

The board generally agreed to investigate the long range needs of the community and define them specifically.

Other members of the board include George Turner, Carlton King, Albert V. Conte, and Roy Almuist.

The newly formed board will meet each second Wednesday of the month at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall.

Although retired from public service as a Kingston Fire-fighter, Capt. Edward H. "Yank" Albrecht continues to serve the community when called upon. While a member of the Kingston Fire Department Capt. Albrecht frequently was called upon to perform the task of grappling for persons drowned in the area, a job in which he was most expert.

When a 1966 Plymouth car was found parked on the western end of the Kingston-Rhinecliff bridge last August 15 and the operator missing, Sheriff William B. Martin called on "Yank" Albrecht's expert services. Albrecht spent several days with his boat and grappling equipment searching the water in the belief that the operator of the car had fallen or jumped from the bridge. When a check to compensate Albrecht for his several days' service was sent him, it was returned.

Capt. "Yank's" remarks were that he was "glad to do a service for his country" and "would do it anytime when he could be of service." Captain Albrecht now resides in retirement at 74 West Union Street.

Standard Containers Save Shipping Costs

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Shippers the world over are now developing the concept of containerization, which is the skill of loading a standard-size container to the same capacity as a vacationer loads his suitcase.

By combining scores of small shipments into one big container measured to fit the dimensions of planes, railroads, ships and trucks, cargo handlers believe they can change this staid old industry.

The containers, most of them metal range in length from less than 10 feet to about 40 feet.

Already shippers claim they are saving millions of dollars for themselves and customers.

Old ports are adapting their docking facilities, and the new jumbo jets soon to be in the air are being built with containers in mind.

The concept provides obvious savings. One 2,000-pound container, for example, costs far less to handle than ten 200-pound packers with the same destination.

Other possible advantages are numerous: less pilferage, less paper work, lower insurance rates, easier customs clearance, speed, and the ability to use the containers on rail ship, plane or truck.

This interchanging of the container among different modes of transportation provides a customer with door-to-door movement of his goods without repacking or rehandling. The container remains sealed.

A metal container that begins its trip on a domestic railroad as a piggy-back car may cross the Atlantic in the hold of a ship and then be attached to a tractor-trailer and hauled through Europe by road.

The speed with which this concept is catching on was discussed this month at the Transportation Research Forum in Montreal, where officials from 10 nations gathered.

One of these, James Crowley of Moore-McCormack Lines, told the audience that U.S. flag shipowners already had invested $160 million in container ships and equipment and by mid-1969 will have spent $900 million.

No matter how successful, however, the new industry is suffering many growing pains.

Some customers, for instance, have been disturbed to find their goods severely damaged, even though the container might never have been opened at any time during shipment. In other words, shippers still must develop skill in packing.

Shippers also are learning that packing for different transportation modes presents special problems. Cargo packed for an ocean voyage, for instance, must withstand much rolling and pitching.

"I'm a stock broker. One reason listed stocks generally are so popular is their profit record."

"Less than 1% of U.S. corporations, they make 70% of the profits."

Just how many stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange?

"Something over 1,200 common stocks. That represents less than 1% of the corporations in the country."

And those few make about 70% of the profits?

"That's right. Generally, they're the big companies, the leaders. You use their products and services practically every hour of the day."

Is a company's profit the main consideration when the Exchange lists it?

"That's important, of course. At the time of its original listing, a company has to demonstrate that it has been able to earn at least $1,200,000 a year after taxes, normally for three years."

For just three years?

"That's just a guideline. Every company is considered on its own merits. The Exchange wants to be satisfied that the company has a good position in its industry and prospects for maintaining that position."

FREE INVESTMENT GUIDE ON LISTED STOCKS—SEND COUPON TODAY.

To an investor, isn't a company's profit the whole story?

"No. Another big factor is that there is usually more information available about listed stocks, because the Exchange expects prompt disclosure of important facts. Smart investors see another advantage in the fact that about 12,000,000 people own listed stocks. That means you can usually find a buyer or seller when you need one quickly and easily, and at a price close to the last sale on the floor."

When a company gets listed, does it automatically stay listed?

"There's nothing automatic about it. There are criteria for listing, and criteria for de-listing, too."

Does all this mean listed stocks are right for any investor?

"Not necessarily. The best advice is to discuss your situation with a member firm broker—the amount you can invest after regular expenses and emergencies; and your goal of growth, dividends, or the safety of principal that bonds might offer. Ask the broker for facts and his own opinion, then exercise your judgment. Whatever you buy, securities or anything else, carries a certain risk. But I think every investor should remember the advantages that listed stocks can offer."

Move to Speculation
Compounds an Error

Q "We are young, have a combined income of $1,000 a month which fluctuates, and have three small children. My husband has $12,000 in life insurance and I've discouraged buying more, since I'm continuing to work. We have a savings account and are buying a mutual fund at the rate of $75 a month. Part of my husband's insurance is paid up with a cash value of $2,520. We are considering taking this cash to invest in speculative stocks. What is your advice?"

A) You seem to be a pretty happy family, with fine children and commensurate responsibilities. I believe that cashing in your husband's paid-up insurance policies would be a grave error, since you have little enough protection now in the event of his death. To do so and put the money into speculative stocks would compound the error, in my honest opinion.

Most speculative issues have in up sharply since last October—excessively so, in many instances. I believe you should consider adding to your insurance protection before doing any further investing. If you can accumulate additional funds, I would consider only high-quality stocks of established growth status to help provide capital for your children's education. In this category I place such issues as American Home Products; Sterling Drug; Plough, Inc.

Q "Do you feel the same way about Bunker Hill as you do about Benguet?"

L.K. A) Definitely no. Benguet is a gold producer in the Philippines subject to subsidy payments and all other policies of that government. The shares have tripled in price on active speculative buying of low-priced shares. There seem to be too many elements of risk here for the ordinary investor. Bunker Hill is an important domestic producer of lead, zinc and silver. Higher prices for the latter metal have largely been offset by reductions in lead and zinc. The shares seem moderately attractive as a speculation in silver, now in a basic upward price trend.

4 Injured, 2 Cited In County Mishaps

Four persons were injured and two motorists were cited for violations as the result of motor vehicle accidents investigated Monday and early today by Kingston State Police.

Lawrence Dibbo, 26, of 62 Summit Avenue, sustained lacerations of the head and neck injuries at 2:20 a. m. today when his car failed to make a left curve on Route 375 near West Hurley and went down an embankment. Trooper Fred Cooper said Dibbo was treated at Benedictine Hospital.

At 11:55 p. m. Monday cars operated by Richard Myers, 17, of 232 Parton Street, Saugerties, and Edwin Luther, 19, Rt. 3, Saugerties, were involved in a collision on the Malden Turnpike.

According to State Police both vehicles were traveling east when Myers attempted to pass the Luther vehicle and the cars collided. The Myers car continued off the road and knocked down a utility pole. Trooper Cooper reported.

Myers was taken to Kingston Hospital by the Saugerties Ambulance Service and treated for lacerations of the face and mouth. He was cited by troopers for unsafe operation of a motor vehicle. The summons is returnable later before Justice of the Peace Justice Calvin Cody, Town of Saugerties.

Cars operated by Peter Greco, 40, of RD 1, Catskill, and Severn Hasbrouck, 23, RD 3, Kingston, were in collision shortly after noon Monday on Morton Boulevard south of Route 199, Town of Ulster, according to Trooper Cooper.

Greco was driving south and slowed for another vehicle when the mishap occurred. Cooper said Severn Hasbrouck was summoned to appear later before Justice of the Peace Arthur A. Reilly, Town of Esopus, for driving too closely.

At 7:10 p. m. yesterday cars operated by Elwood Stalhut, 23, of West Hurley, and Edward Felipe, 17, of 9 Church Street, Ruby, were in collision at the Big Scot parking lot, according to state police at Kingston.

Stalhut received contusions of the chest. Joyce Stalhut, 18, sustained contusions of the left arm. Both were treated at Kingston Hospital, troopers reported.

Apple Growers Slow Shipments to Up Price

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A drive by the New York Farm Bureau to withhold apples from the market until processors meet growers' price demands has drawn support from 250 producers in four "fruit belt" counties.

At a meeting here Monday night, the growers agreed to either write off their early crop of the wealthy variety of apples or ship them to markets in Pennsylvania and Virginia. They were from Monroe, Niagara, Orleans and Wayne counties, along the southern shore of Lake Ontario.

A difference of $1.25 per hundredweight, or about 50 cents a bushel, separates the growers' price demand and the processor's offer. John Follin, Farm Bureau coordinator of marketing services, told the gathering.

Another speaker, Calvin Nesbitt, said there still was maneuvering time for the growers since the late, and most important, apple crop, probably would not be ready for picking until the second week in October.

Nesbitt, chairman of the Farm Bureau's apple operations committee, advised the growers not to make any sales commitments until a base price of $4.50 a hundredweight is established.

There were reports that some growers who have made delivery commitments to processors have decided not to follow through in the light of the boycott.

Duffy-Mott Co., with plants in Holley and Hamilton, is the largest processor in the area. Smaller firms include the Comstock Canning division of the Borden Co. and the Lyndonville Canning Co.

Western New York apples are used principally for applesauce, which costs the consumer less than any other processed fruit, a representative of the American Agricultural Marketing Association told the meeting.

Supermarkets consistently use applesauce for their lead item in sales, and retail chains apply pressure on processors to keep the prices down, he added.

The meeting to bring growers from the four counties together followed similar gatherings last Friday night in Albion andodus.

This interchanging of the container among different modes of transportation provides a customer with door-to-door movement of his goods without re-packing or rehandling. The container remains sealed.

A metal container that begins its trip on a domestic railroad as a piggy-back car may cross the Atlantic in the hold of a ship and then be attached to a tractor-trailer and hauled through Europe by road.

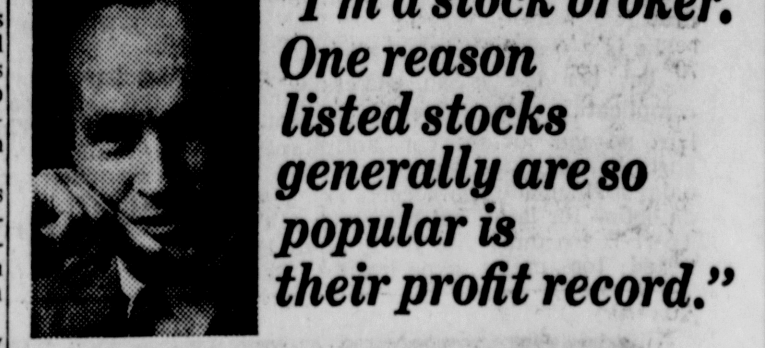

The speed with which this concept is catching on was discussed this month at the Transportation Research Forum in Montreal, where officials from 10 nations gathered.

One of these, James Crowley of Moore-McCormack Lines, told the audience that U.S. flag shippers already had invested $160 million in container ships and equipment and by mid-1969 will have spent $900 million.

No matter how successful, however, the new industry is suffering many growing pains. Some customers, for instance, have been disturbed to find their goods severely damaged, even though the container might never have been opened at any time during shipment. In other words, shippers still must develop skill in packing. Shippers also are learning that packing for different transportation modes presents special problems. Cargo packed for an ocean voyage, for instance, must withstand much rolling and pitching.

"I'm a stock broker. One reason listed stocks generally are so popular is their profit record."

"Less than 1% of U.S. corporations, they make 70% of the profits."

Just how many stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange?

"Something over 1,200 common stocks. That represents less than 1% of the corporations in the country."

And those few make about 70% of the profits?

"That's right. Generally, they're the big companies, the leaders. You use their products and services practically every hour of the day."

Is a company's profit the main consideration when the Exchange lists it?

"That's important, of course. At the time of its original listing, a company has to demonstrate that it has been able to earn at least $1,200,000 a year after taxes, normally for three years."

For just three years?

"That's just a guideline. Every company is considered on its own merits. The Exchange wants to be satisfied that the company has a good position in its industry and prospects for maintaining that position."

FREE INVESTMENT GUIDE ON LISTED STOCKS—SEND COUPON TODAY.

To an investor, isn't a company's profit the whole story?

"No. Another big factor is that there is usually more information available about listed stocks, because the Exchange expects prompt disclosure of important facts. Smart investors see another advantage in the fact that about 12,000,000 people own listed stocks. That means you can usually find a buyer or seller when you need one quickly and easily, and at a price close to the last sale on the floor."

When a company gets listed, does it automatically stay listed?

"There's nothing automatic about it. There are criteria for listing, and criteria for de-listing, too."

Does all this mean listed stocks are right for any investor?

"Not necessarily. The best advice is to discuss your situation with a member firm broker—the amount you can invest after regular expenses and emergencies; and your goal of growth, dividends, or the safety of principal that bonds might offer. Ask the broker for facts and his own opinion, then exercise your judgment. Whatever you buy, securities or anything else, carries a certain risk. But I think every investor should remember the advantages that listed stocks can offer."

Savings Stamps Program Lauded

In a letter from Glen R. Johnson, national director of the U. S. Savings Bonds Division to Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk received this date, Johnson stated that the savings program by school children of savings stamps is more important than ever.

"Our children are growing up in a world of tension, and conflict," he said. "The challenges they must face are ever increasing. If they are to reap the full benefits of their American heritage they must be prepared to meet these challenges; they must be given positive goals for themselves and their country. The savings program serves not only to teach the habit of thrift but to prepare our young people for some of the responsibilities they have as American citizens," he concluded.

The post offices in Kingston offer savings stamps in five denominations from 10 cents to $5 and are on sale at all times while the service windows are open. As children fill their albums—which are provided free—they exchange them for U. S. Savings Bonds at their bank.

Postmaster Newkirk said "We are proud to offer this service to our young people. I know of no better way to teach thrift and civil responsibility than by encouraging our youth to buy Savings Stamps and Bonds. This is one way they can all share in America."

Dentists Sign For Advanced Study Series

Since continuing education for dentists is important and also is required for those participating in the Medicaid program, enrollment for post graduate courses in Eastern New York is setting a new record, according to Dr. Robert C. King of Delmar, chairman of the program.

First of the season's schools for members of the Third and Fourth District Dental Societies of the State of New York, is scheduled for September 28. Sessions will be conducted at Holiday Inn on the Albany-Schenectady road. Ten full days of clinical instruction are planned for the 1967-68 season. With other schools scheduled for Oct. 26, 27, Nov. 18, Jan. 10, 11, Feb. 15, March 13, 14 and March 28, Dr. King said "the Third and Fourth District members are assuming full responsibility for their own continuing education under the teaching of some of the country's top technicians and practitioners." Well over 100 are expected to take the course.

Holsteins Score on Ratings

Milk and butterfat production levels established by Registered Holstein cows in this area have been reported by Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The individual lactations were tested under official supervision.

Vicinity cows listed in the Holstein report are:
Be Glad Major Value 4721031, a seven-year-old owned by Albert C. Bristol, Copake, produced 17,480 pounds of milk and 816 pounds of butterfat in 354 days.

Jaway Golden Piety Lana 5306173, a five-year-old owned by Wayne F. Kelder, Jaway Farms, Accord, produced 19,970 pounds of milk and 691 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Clyde Level Acres Sally Ann 5562310, a four-year-old, produced 16,800 pounds of milk and 677 pounds of butterfat in 334 days. Ellbank Ormsby Admiral June 5831401, a three-year-old, had 17,500 pounds of milk and 614 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Both are owned by R. Alton Wright, Ellbank Farm, Millerton.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,513 pounds of milk and 315 pounds of butterfat by the average U. S. dairy cow, notes the national Holstein Association.

Cornell University supervised the sampling, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the Holstein's organization's herd and breed improvement programs.

Medicaid Story Unfolds in More Dollars and More Criticism

By BOB SYKES
Associated Press Writer

"Nobody liked Medicaid except the people," Gov. Rockefeller said five months ago. Nothing has changed. Its day-to-day story unfolds in dollars and criticism; more dollars, more criticism. But, the millions of New Yorkers who have benefited from the jointly financed, federal, state and local health program are conspicuously silent... their names are confidential.

Campaign Strategy Revealed by Gallo

Campaign strategy was the topic recently when T. Robert Gallo, Democrat-Liberal candidate for Kingston alderman-at-large met with Liberal Party officials.

Gallo, presently Ninth Ward alderman, served as alderman-at-large in 1965 when Common Council members unanimously elected him upon the resignation of Joseph Carroll.

The Democrat-Liberal has pledged to end the long recesses at Council meetings and will submit a plan to do this in the near future.

He said that he considers the post of alderman-at-large as being extremely important because the officer acts as the president of the legislative body of Kingston.

Some of the goals set by Gallo for the 1968-1969 term include: legislation which can be enforced to end air pollution in the city; the achievement of

Not silent are many local officials who look aghast at their budgets and projected deficits. They view with dismay the prospect of hiking taxes and urge a drastic revision of the program.

For Medicaid, companion to the federal sponsored medicare and creature of the 1966 Legislature, has caught on in the lower Middle Class.

"We are fairly shocked at times when a patient tells us he is under Medicaid," comments a Schuylar County physician. "Some own a business, have property and others, good positions." The remark is not typical.

There are school teachers, nurses, policemen, lawyers and salesmen in the program. There are factory workers, laborers carried on welfare rolls. Retired clergymen and doctors have obtained aid as have many children.

To the governor it is "the greatest social legislation that the nation has known in 30 years."

"The program is so generous we are no longer surprised by the individuals who make application for Medicaid," one county welfare director said.

It pays doctor bills, dentists, specialists, drug stores, hospitals and nursing homes. And, more and more of the state's six million potentially eligible beneficiaries are taking advantage of the program.

An Associated Press survey of Medicaid during the last five months reveals a growing case-load among the counties reporting.

"Its enrollment has grown steadily, not mushroomed," commented George Baranec, chief deputy commissioner in the Suffolk County Welfare Department.

He reported that his department has received several letters of appreciation from middle income families who say they would have "gone down the drain" financially without Medicaid.

"People in fixed incomes, in the middle incomes, are getting caught in the squeeze of higher medical costs, and this program is going to help them," he added.

Niagara County Commissioner Daunt I. Stenzel, noted the increase in enrollment from March, with 27,462, to July, with 36,110, but predicted: "It has reached its peak and will start leveling off now."

Niagara has a county population of 233,594. More than 20,000 of those presently enrolled in the Medicaid program are children.

Oneida County, with a population of 283,000, had 39,000 enrolled in Medicaid by Aug. 1, reflecting more than 100 percent jump from the March figure of 15,500.

Sparsely populated Jefferson County carried about 25 percent—17,604—of its 69,000 population on its Medicaid rolls as of July. The number, however, reflected a steady increase from 12,064 in March. Nassau County, with an estimated population of 1.4 million, also follows the trend. In March there were 28,086 enrolled. By July, the number had risen to 45,777. Payments were averaging $1 million a month, according to the Department of Social Services.

As Medicaid rolls have fattened and costs have soared, the squawks from local officials have become louder.

"Where is it all going to end," says Harold J. Mitchell Sr., chairman of the St. Lawrence County Board of Supervisors.

"Things are getting out of hand," says Auburn councilman Leonard R. Greene.

"How can we maintain Medicaid and at the same time prevent bankruptcy?" asks Green's colleague, Councilman Peter E. Corning.

Many officials in Upstate

New York say the answer is to reduce eligibility standards to a "reasonable level" and to provide realistic deductible features so a patient bears some of his own expenses.

Medicaid has become a gravy train for the unscrupulous and a bonanza for the immoral," charges F. Clark Hamlin, the county's budget director. He offered little information to substantiate his charge.

Hamlin recently advised the Board of Supervisors of a $1 million deficit if the spiraling rate of Medicaid payments continues.

One dentist in the Watertown area was paid a total of $18,608 from April through June, exceeding by more than $4,000 Medicaid receipts for the whole of 1966.

On the other hand, populous Westchester County with 300,000 eligible for the program only had close to 19,000 persons enrolled as of July. The number, however, reflected a steady increase from 12,064 in March. Nassau County, with an estimated population of 1.4 million, also follows the trend. In March there were 28,086 enrolled. By July, the number had risen to 45,777. Payments were averaging $1 million a month, according to the Department of Social Services.

He attended Siena College in Loudonville and is presently associated with the McDermott Food Brokers Inc. of Albany. ## DEPEND ON DE WITT FOR TOTAL VALUE.

★COMPETITIVE PRICES

You can depend on De Witt to deliver the most car for your money — and the reason is simple arithmetic. De Witt is the area's leading volume Cadillac-Oldsmobile dealer — and that means lower proportionate overhead per car. Remember, it's the net price that counts — and everything works in your favor at De Witt: Volume buying from the factory and volume selling of both new and used cars combine to put us in a position to give you the No. 1 value — whatever car you choose, on any day, in any month, during any season of the year. See De Witt first or see De Witt last — just be sure to see De Witt before you decide.

★HUGE SELECTIONS

You can depend on De Witt to make it easy for you to decide — because you'll see a cavalcade of cars at De Witt, not a gallery of pictures. De Witt has a spectacular standing stock of brand new Cadillacs, Oldsmobiles and late model used cars that spans the whole spectrum of series, body styles, colors, accessories and equipment options. The chances are excellent that exactly the car you want is in De Witt's inventory right now — but if it's necessary to place a factory order, you'll still have the advantage of De Witt's delivery expediting service. There's no faster way to get what you want than to let De Witt get it for you.

★SUPREME SERVICE

You can depend on De Witt to keep your confidence and safeguard your satisfaction in the matter that may well be the most important of all: Service. Your new Cadillac or Oldsmobile is covered, of course, by one of the most complete and comprehensive warranties in the industry. But it takes the skill of De Witt's master mechanics and the precision of De Witt's advanced automotive maintenance equipment to give that protection maximum meaning through preventive care and professional expertise of the highest order. It all adds up to one clear conclusion: "When you depend on De Witt—you've found the formula for total value."

Poll Shows Rocky Ahead of Johnson

NEW YORK (AP)—A nationwide poll shows that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York would defeat President Johnson in an election, but that Rockefeller would have trouble getting the Republican nomination.

The survey, by pollster George Gallup, shows Rockefeller would defeat Johnson 48-46, with the remainder undecided, if the election were held today.

Turning to probable candidates, however, the poll shows that if Michigan Gov. George Romney withdraws as a candidate, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon emerges as the top GOP contender, 2 to 1 over Rockefeller, his closest rival.

Nixon also heads the list of favorite and probable winners among candidates in a copy-right California state poll by the Los Angeles Times. The poll shows a drop in Romney's popularity.

The California poll shows Nixon favored by 28 per cent of the state's GOP voters. Romney,

Federal Aid Necessary, Rocky Says

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Proposals to limit federal participation in the Medicaid program would discriminate against thousands of children and threaten thousands of medically needy with a loss of benefits, Gov. Rockefeller said Monday.

Rockefeller, in a letter to U.S. Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said the loss in federal aid to the state would be $29 million the first year, $40 million the second year, and $50 million the third.

If the bill before the U.S. Senate becomes law, he said, at least 10 per cent of the New York State residents now receiving Medicaid benefits would lose the benefits and at least 10 per cent would lose their eligibility.

Rockefeller also protested that the proposal would permit use of federal funds to aid children of unemployed fathers only if the father had a recent employment history or had exhausted unemployment compensation benefits.

This would lead to desertion of families by fathers with a lack of work history, Rockefeller said.

A third problem with the proposals, Rockefeller said, would be created if there was a freezing of the percentage of federal-aided children based on January 1967 figures in each state. In times of high unemployment, this could result in many needy children going without aid.

Crazy 'Copter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For an awakening, it was rude, loud and terribly angry.

All morning Sunday the helicopter busied itself ferrying chunks of neon sign from a parking lot to the top of a new Hollywood Boulevard building.

Every time the copter arose, up went the tempers of nearby residents—and the number of telephone calls to police.

The owners of the machine got a permit to work on Sunday because traffic is light and there's less safety hazard, they said.

Sweetest Sweet

CHICAGO (AP) — A scientist in Peoria claims he has discovered the sweetest thing on earth.

Dr. G. E. Inglett said a red berry he found in Nigeria is 1,500 times sweeter than sugar and 400 times sweeter than the sugar substitute, saccharin. He outlined his findings to the American Chemical Society meeting in Chicago.

Inglett, chief of research on cereal properties at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Northern Utilization Research Laboratory, said natives in the West Africa country refuse to cultivate the fruit.

It's too sweet.

Lions Plan Funds For Scholarships

Saugerties Lions named past president, William Brinnier to represent the club in a new civic enterprise, "Dollars for Scholars" in which citizens of the community will be asked to contribute one dollar each toward scholarships for Saugerties students.

The idea was advanced at the weekly dinner meeting of the club held recently. Saugerties Jaycees, Mrs. Barbara Buchle and Mrs. Maria Aquano and Saugerties High School guidance director explained the proposed project as outlined by the Citizen's Scholarship Foundation of America, Inc.

Brinnier, who was appointed by Lions president, Kenneth Harder, emphasized the program was not necessarily exclusively for college level students but could aid worthy pupils in studies at trade schools, business schools and schools of nursing.

Lion vice president Frank Greco will be the speaker at the next club meeting. His talk will center on organization and responsibilities of Ulster County Selective Service Board, which he has served for a number of years as member and chairman.

Frank Costello advised that he was in the process of securing a program featuring Tommy Gorman, National League baseball umpire. The date of the meeting will be announced later.

A meeting in the fall honoring the Lions Club international anniversary founding date will also honor the charter members of the Saugerties Lions Club. Designated on the committee for the observance of Charter Members Night are: Harold Wilsey, Hugo Knauer, Greco and Brinnier.

President Harder announced that the annual attendance contest would commence with the first meeting in October, and designated as chairman for the two teams, Lion Treasurer Wellington Hunter and past President Brinnier. Both men promised an all out campaign to secure victory for his team consisting of a steak dinner paid for by the losers, who must enjoy "a plate of beans."

Joseph Bosco, a past president and chairman of the Lions Club variety show, announced plans and called for rehearsals to begin in the near future. The program is to be offered some time in February.

Secretary Robert Anderson read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Schools Close Sept. 25, Dec. 4

Saugerties Central Schools will close on Monday, Sept. 25, and on Monday, Dec. 4, for two in-service workshops. It was announced by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold. All pupils will be excused on these two days while teachers cooperate in improving teaching techniques.

The workshops are part of a project officially designated "Techniques and Procedures for Use in Implementing on Individualized Approach to Learning." The State Education Department has allocated $400 in support of the project. All Saugerties teachers will participate. Dr. Thomas Clayton, professor of education at Syracuse University, will serve as a consultant.

The major purpose will be to study and use the techniques of constructing units which will serve both teachers and pupils by outlining specific objectives, skills, concepts, ideas, attitudes, and appreciations to be gained in each course. The units will actually serve as the curriculum guide for each subject area. They will not only clarify grade placement of items but also avoid overlapping and omission of materials.

In addition to the two six-hour workshops scheduled, nine two-hour sessions will be on the Mondays between these dates between Sept. 25 and Dec. 4. They will be held after pupils have left the building. Two in-service credits will be granted teachers meeting course requirements.

Holy Name Society Plans Spring Auction

At the September meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary of the Snow it was agreed to hold an auction in the spring.

President Fred Seither appointed John P. "Bud" Smith as the general chairman who stated that work would begin immediately and anyone having useful articles should contact him or any member of the Holy Name Society. The committee will make arrangements to call at homes or places of business to pick up donated articles.

The first social event of the season will be held early in October, with vice president Robert Carr in charge. Seither has urged that members bring a guest to the next meeting, Oct. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Individual Instruction Advantageous to Pupils

Preliminary evaluations of individualized instruction in two Saugerties High School courses indicate definite advantages for pupils over traditional teaching methods, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold. Eighteen pupils in an elementary algebra class and 14 pupils in a mathematics 10 class were paired with pupils of matching intelligence by Principals Robert Moser and Dr. George Hamaty.

Moser's study shows that pupils in the individualized instruction algebra class led their counterparts in the traditional classes 14 to 4 in class average, 12 to 6 in the final examination, and 13 to 5 in the year's final grade.

Dr. Hamaty's study also showed pupils in the individualized mathematics 10 program leading: 9 to 5 in class average, 9 to 5 in Regents examinations, and 10 to 5 in year's final grade.

"The findings are not conclusive but the results are so substantially in favor of the individualized study program that we are encouraged to continue our work," stated Dr. Arnold. "We now have the program in a contemporary issues course, mathematics 9, mathematics 10, mathematics 11, and mathematics 12. We have to expand as units are developed and when teachers are ready. "The heart of an individualized program is the unit and preparation of units is difficult. The units state general objectives and then specify the skills, concepts, ideas, appreciations and attitudes—the learning outcomes. Activities are designed to provide pupils with the necessary experiences to gain the objectives. Pupils are aware of the skills and concepts they are expected to gain and work toward these goals at rates of speed in relation to their individual abilities. Teachers serve as guides and counselors, helping pupils when they need help and checking completed activities. Pupils are not lectured but learn to use the tools of learning. Most pupils like to be independent and to assume responsibility and, given the opportunity, produce good results.

"We are planning a full-day workshop on Sept. 25 on the techniques of constructing units which can be used in either traditional or individualized programs. This will be followed by nine two-hour workshops on following Mondays and will be culminated with another full-day workshop on Dec. 4. We hope that these efforts will result in curriculum and teaching improvements. In the fast-changing world of today we cannot afford to stand still," Dr. Arnold concluded.

Plans Pretty Planes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — When Mrs. Jean Wickstead tackles interior decorating problems, it's not a house she is concerned with, but rather an airplane.

As an industrial designer for Atlantic Aviation, she not only has to consider good taste, comfort and lasting qualities of fabric, but also the Federal Aviation Administration's strict regulations concerning fireproofing.

"Everybody wants blue on the outside and brown for the inside right now," Mrs. Wickstead remarks. "The reason seems to be that the blue is the color of the sky and the brown is a board-room color." The planes are designed mostly for businessmen.

Architecture Exhibit At Vassar College

The demolition of many pioneering Chicago buildings in recent years has given urgency to the study and preservation of these now historic monuments which illustrate the rise of the modern movement in the architecture of this country.

The exhibition, "Early Chicago Architecture," which will be shown at the Vassar College Art Gallery from Sept. 18 to Oct. 15 presents a selection of photographs and measured drawings of structures that attained importance in the Chicago School of Architecture between approximately 1880 and 1910.

The photographs, plans, and drawings were selected from the files of the Historic American Buildings Survey, a unit of the National Park Service which for the last two years, has supported intensive projects of recording significant Chicago structures.

Sponsored jointly by the Historic American Buildings Survey and the Smithsonian Institution, this exhibition is currently on a nationwide tour under the auspices of the Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition Service.

Early Designs
The exhibition traces the School's unique development from the early pragmatic design for commercial buildings to the renowned ornamental work of Louis Sullivan and to the development of domestic "Prairie Houses" by Frank Lloyd Wright and his followers.

The survey opens with Jenney's Leiter Building of 1879, which represents the first step toward skeleton construction and leads the way for the development of the glass curtain wall of the modern era. The Auditorium by Adler and Sullivan built between 1887 and 1889 was, at the time of its construction, the largest and most complex building, uniting hotel, office building, and theater in one structure.

With its revolutionary engineering and its refined and integrated ornamentation the Auditorium takes prominence in the exhibition through a large number of exterior and interior views and details. In addition, other and less publicized structures by Adler and Sullivan are shown, such as the Hammond Library of 1882, The Shiller Building of the same year, the Kehlath Anshe Ma'ariv Synagogue (1890), and the Chicago Stock Exchange (1894). Outstanding examples of residential buildings are Richardson's Gleason House, built in 1886-87, a true townhouse centering on its inner courtyard and one of Richardson's most significant works.

City Center

Rarely in the history of architecture do we find such a fusion of advantageous circumstances as were presented in Chicago during the last decades of the nineteenth century. The devastating fire of 1871 had created an urgent need for a city center that would provide adequate facilities for the rapidly expanding industrial age and its need for factories, railroad stations, and office buildings.

This challenge was met by a group of architects and engineers who brought to the task a unique combination of talents: Imagination and a feeling for appropriateness in design, concern for the future of man in an urban society, and a will to experiment with new concepts of engineering. Supported by responsive clients, the pioneers of this new architecture, William L. Jenney, the firm of Burnham and Root, and most significant Adler and Sullivan, departed from the architecture of "the styles" and developed a building type that would best function as offices, warehouses, and stores. ## Plans Pretty Planes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — When Mrs. Jean Wickstead tackles interior decorating problems, it's not a house she is concerned with, but rather an airplane.

As an industrial designer for Atlantic Aviation, she not only has to consider good taste, comfort and lasting qualities of fabric, but also the Federal Aviation Administration's strict regulations concerning fireproofing.

"Everybody wants blue on the outside and brown for the inside right now," Mrs. Wickstead reports. "The reason seems to be that the blue is the color of the sky and the brown is a boardroom color." The planes are designed mostly for businessmen.

Architecture Exhibit At Vassar College

The demolition of many pioneering Chicago buildings in recent years has given urgency to the study and preservation of these now historic monuments which illustrate the rise of the modern movement in the architecture of this country. The exhibition, "Early Chicago Architecture," which will be shown at the Vassar College Art Gallery from Sept. 18 to Oct. 15 presents a selection of photographs and measured drawings of structures that attained importance in the Chicago School of Architecture between approximately 1880 and 1910. The photographs, plans, and drawings were selected from the files of the Historic American Buildings Survey, a unit of the National Park Service which for the last two years, has supported intensive projects of recording significant Chicago structures. Sponsored jointly by the Historic American Buildings Survey and the Smithsonian Institution, this exhibition is currently on a nationwide tour under the auspices of the Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition Service.

Early Designs

The exhibition traces the School's unique development from the early pragmatic design for commercial buildings to the renowned ornamental work of Louis Sullivan and to the development of domestic "Prairie Houses" by Frank Lloyd Wright and his followers. The survey opens with Jenney's Leiter Building of 1879, which represents the first step toward skeleton construction and leads the way for the development of the glass curtain wall of the modern era. The Auditorium by Adler and Sullivan built between 1887 and 1889 was, at the time of its construction, the largest and most complex building, uniting hotel, office building, and theater in one structure.

With its revolutionary engineering and its refined and integrated ornamentation the Auditorium takes prominence in the exhibition through a large number of exterior and interior views and details. In addition, other and less publicized structures by Adler and Sullivan are shown, such as the Hammond Library of 1882, The Shiller Building of the same year, the Kehlhuth Anshe Ma'ariv Synagogue (1890), and the Chicago Stock Exchange (1894). Outstanding examples of residential buildings are Richardson's Gleason House, built in 1886-87, a true townhouse centering on its inner courtyard and one of Richardson's most significant works. ## Philharmonic: In-School Concerts

Major changes in the in-school concert activities of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society were announced today by Claude Montoux, music director. Montoux stated, "One of the most important services of any symphony orchestra to its community is a program of concerts in the schools which will effectively and enjoyably introduce children to their musical heritage. To best serve that aim the Philharmonic Society has announced a unified educational program entitled The Four Great Eras in Music.

"The programs consist of four concerts each presenting a variety of music from a significant period in the development of western music. For each participating school preparatory teaching materials will be made available in order to relate the music to historical and artistic events of the period. The minimum number of musicians per program has been increased from four to six, and the last program of the series will feature the first appearance of a chamber orchestra performing in-school concerts in the Hudson Valley. By pre-sending school concerts with larger ensembles it will be possible to provide more varied and exciting programs." The first program in the series will feature music of the Baroque Era. The program will feature flute, oboe, violin, viola, cello and harpsichord, performing works by Purcell, Daquin, Pachelbel, Rameau, and J. C. Bach. Included in the program will be Daquin's "The Cuckoo" for solo harpsichord.

The second program in the series will feature music from the Classical Era, beginning with the Haydn Divertimento for "Hunting Horn" violin and cello. The program will be presented by a string quartet, a french horn player, and a guitarist. The guitarist will play a classical flamenco guitar solo from the period and will join the string quartet in performing a movement from the Boccherini Quintet in E minor for guitar and string quartet. # Cards Make Pennant Clinching Official

Gibson's 3-Hitter Tops Phils

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Red Schoendienst was the picture of serenity as the St. Louis Cardinals bathed each other in champagne after clinching the National League pennant with a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia Monday night.

And why not? After all, he's known they'd win since March. "I don't get excited," said the cool redhead after watching Bob Gibson throttle the Phillies on three hits to clinch the flag.

"I told only one guy in the spring that we were going to win the pennant," Schoendienst continued. "That was Danny Murtaugh one day when we played the Pirates in Fort Myers, Fla. I told him not to tell anybody but we were going to win."

Great Surge

The Cardinals didn't keep Schoendienst's secret very well. They soared to the top of the league in mid-June and have been in front ever since. Jolted by the loss of Gibson, who suffered a broken leg in mid-July, St. Louis refused to fold and instead broke the race apart with a string of 21 victories in 25 games.

Keys to the pennant victory were pitchers Dick Hughes, Steve Carlton and Nelson Briles, who picked up the slack when Gibson was hurt, and the acquisition of sluggers Orlando Cepeda and Roger Maris through trades.

Cepeda, traded by San Francisco for pitcher Ray Sadecki last summer, leads the league with 108 runs batted in and is batting .330. He danced through the happy clubhouse screaming "El Birdos—beautiful, beautiful, beautiful."

In other National League games Monday night, New York pounded Los Angeles 7-2. Houston rapped Pittsburgh 14-4 and Cincinnati blanked Atlanta 4-0. Gibson won his 19th game and third since recovering from his broken leg. He said his arm still wasn't at its best. "I need another outing and it will be all right," said Gibson, who was the hero of St. Louis' seven-game victory over New York in the 1964 World Series.

Card Ellsworth
The Cardinals were held hitless through five innings by Dick Ellsworth but busted loose for four runs in the sixth. Dal Maxvill opened with a single, moved up on Gibson's sacrifice and scooted home on Lou Brock's double. Brock scored on Julian Javier's hit.

Curt Flood struck out but after Cepeda was purposely walked, Mike Shannon doubled Javier home. Cepeda also scored on the hit when Cookie Rojas threw wild on the relay.

Rookie Tom Seaver won his 15th game for the Mets, scattering eight hits as New York ended a seven-game losing streak. Ken Boswell, making his first big-league appearance, drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a double.

Deron Johnson and Tony Perez cracked home runs and Ted Abernathy saved his 25th game as Cincinnati blanked Atlanta. Mel Queen worked the first six innings for the Reds and won his 14th game.

Doug Rader smacked four hits and drove in four runs as Houston walloped Pittsburgh. Jimmy Wynn scored four runs as the Astros unloaded a 15-hit attack for their sixth straight victory.

Lasher Hurls Two Innings In Tiger Loss

Fred Lasher of Poughkeepsie pitched two innings for the Detroit Tigers Monday in their 6-5 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

The former PHS ace stopped the Sox in the eighth but he gave up a home run to Carl Yastrzemski in the ninth. The roundtripper knotted the count and the Red Sox scored their winning run in the 10th on Dalton Jones' home run off Mike Marshall.

The home run off Lasher was the first given by the Detroit relief ace since his rec-rel last month. He has a 2-0 record and has been credited with seven saves.

Notre Dame Leads First Grid Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Victories by Southern California and UCLA during college football's initial big weekend have moved the West Coast teams into solid positions in the Associated Press poll.

The first poll of the regular 1967 season finds the Trojans in fourth place, a gain of three positions over their preseason rankings, and the Bruins in the No. 6 spot, two places higher than in the pre-campaign estimate.

Notre Dame, Alabama and Michigan State are 1-2-3 in that order, the same positions they occupied in the preseason ratings. The three play their first games this weekend, the Irish against California, Alabama against Florida State and the Spartans against Houston.

Texas is fifth while Georgia is in the No. 7 slot followed by Miami, Fla., Colorado and Nebraska. In the initial season balloting by 36 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's national panel, Notre Dame collected 22 votes for first place and 309 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

1. Notre Dame 309
2. Alabama 263
3. Michigan State 209
4. S. Calif 184

Still No Breathing Room in AL

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston's Jones boy and Minnesota's Jim-dandy are sitting pretty today, but it's still four for the seesaw in the American League pennant playground.

The Red Sox outslugged Detroit 6-5 on Dalton Jones' 10th-inning homer, the Twins squeezed past Kansas City 2-0 on Jim Kaat's 10-inning six-hitter and California unseated the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in Monday night's renewal of the Great Race.

When the dust settled, the Red Sox, Tigers and Twins all had a piece of first place. It was a four-way deadlock until Rick Reichardt's RBI single in the ninth inning at Anaheim sent the White Sox reeling all the way to fourth place. . .one-half game off the pace.

Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 2-0 in the other game on the AL schedule.

Jones, a former bonus baby making only his third start this month, beat the Tigers with his fourth hit of the night after Carl Yastrzemski's 40th homer pulled Boston even in the ninth. It was the Red Sox' first victory in four starts.

Takes Batting Lead

Yastrzemski, who paces the league in homers and RBI, also drilled a double and single to wrest the batting lead from Baltimore's Frank Robinson with a .314 mark.

Yastrzemski's ninth inning shot against Fred Lasher gave the Red Sox a lift after Norm Cash poled two homers for Detroit and Jim Northrup's run-scoring double in the eighth gave the Tigers a 5-4 edge.

"In that situation, I was going for the home run," Yaz said. "There was no doubt about it."

Kaat, who went into the Kansas City game with an 0-4 season record against the last-place A's, held them in check and struck out 12 before Ted Uhlaender's single and an error by center fielder Joe Nosske sent two runs home in the 10th.

Jim Catfish Hunter, who scattered three hits until the 10th, was the loser as the Twins ended a three-game tailspin.

"I was due for some luck against these guys," said Kaat, who has won five straight for a 14-13 mark.

The White Sox managed just one hit against California rookie Ricky Clark until the eighth inning, when Jim Fregosi's error helped them push over two unearned runs for a 2-2 tie.

BOSOX HEROES — Happy in the dressing room after defeating the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, in 10 innings Monday are Boston players (l-r), Jose Santiago, winning pitcher; third baseman Dalton Jones, who hit winning homer in the 10th and left fielder Carl Yastrzemski, who homered in the 9th to tie score at 5-5. Fred Lasher of Poughkeepsie pitched two innings for the Detroit Tigers Monday in their 6-5 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

The former PHS ace stopped the Sox in the eighth but he gave up a home run to Carl Yastrzemski in the ninth. The roundtripper knotted the count and the Red Sox scored their winning run in the 10th on Dalton Jones' home run off Mike Marshall.

The home run off Lasher was the first given by the Detroit relief ace since his 2-0 record last month. He has a 2-0 record and has been credited with seven saves.

Notre Dame Leads First Grid Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Victories by Southern California and UCLA during college football's initial big weekend have moved the West Coast teams into solid positions in the Associated Press poll.

The first poll of the regular 1967 season finds the Trojans in fourth place, a gain of three positions over their preseason rankings, and the Bruins in the No. 6 spot, two places higher than in the pre-campaign estimate.

Notre Dame, Alabama and Michigan State are 1-2-3 in that order, the same positions they occupied in the preseason ratings. The three play their first games this weekend, the Irish against California, Alabama against Florida State and the Spartans against Houston.

Texas is fifth while Georgia is in the No. 7 slot followed by Miami, Fla., Colorado and Nebraska.

In the initial season balloting by 36 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's national panel, Notre Dame collected 22 votes for first place and 309 points on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second etc.

1. Notre Dame 309
2. Alabama 263

Boston's Jones boy and Minnesota's Jim-dandy are sitting pretty today, but it's still four for the seesaw in the American League pennant playground.

The Red Sox outslugged Detroit 6-5 on Dalton Jones' 10th-inning homer, the Twins squeezed past Kansas City 2-0 on Jim Kaat's 10-inning six-hitter and California unseated the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in Monday night's renewal of the Great Race.

When the dust settled, the Red Sox, Tigers and Twins all had a piece of first place. It was a four-way deadlock until Rick Reichardt's RBI single in the ninth inning at Anaheim sent the White Sox reeling all the way to fourth place. . . one-half game off the pace.

Baltimore blanked the New York Yankees 2-0 in the other game on the AL schedule.

Jones, a former bonus baby making only his third start this month, beat the Tigers with his fourth hit of the night after Carl Yastrzemski's 40th homer pulled Boston even in the ninth. It was the Red Sox' first victory in four starts.

Takes Batting Lead

Yastrzemski, who paces the league in homers and RBI, also drilled a double and single to wrest the batting lead from Baltimore's Frank Robinson with a .314 mark.

Yastrzemski's ninth inning shot against Fred Lasher gave the Red Sox a lift after Norm Cash poled two homers for Detroit and Jim Northrup's run-scoring double in the eighth gave the Tigers a 5-4 edge.

"In that situation, I was going for the home run," Yaz said. "There was not doubt about it."

Kaat, who went into the Kansas City game with an 0-4 season record against the last-place A's, held them in check and struck out 12 before Ted Uhlaender's single and an error by center fielder Joe Nieseck sent two runs home in the 10th.

Jim Catfish Hunter, who scattered three hits until the 10th, was the loser as the Twins ended a three-game tailspin.

"I was due for some luck against these guys," said Kaat, who has won five straight for a 14-13 mark.

The White Sox managed just one hit against California rookie Ricky Clark until the eighth inning, when Jim Fregosi's error helped them push over two unearned runs for a 2-2 tie.

BOSOX HEROES — Happy in the dressing room after defeating the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, in 10 innings Monday are Boston players (l-r), Jose Santiago, winning pitcher; third baseman Dalton Jones, who hit winning homer in the 10th and left fielder Carl Yastrzemski, who homered in the 9th to tie score at 5-5. ## Intrepid Retains Cup for U.S.

By SID MOODY

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — America yet retains her grip on some of her more prized possessions, such as the gold in Ft. Knox, the Liberty Bell—and the America's Cup.

Yachting's Holy Grail, which has never left these shores in the 116 years of its existence, will remain on the shelf of the New York Yacht Club for at least another three years. Intrepid, the American cup defender, saw that Monday by giving the Australian challenger, Dame Pattie, her fourth and final defeat.

Not Fast Enough

The winless Dame put up a game fight in moderate winds which she was designed for but, as Jock Sturrock, her skipper, said after the race: "We didn't go fast enough."

"When we arrived in the United States, we were confident, but we knew we had a tremendous task. But there is no doubt the best man, the best crew and the best boat won the America's Cup."

Intrepid's helmsman, Bus Moshbacher, dripping after being tossed into the harbor by his victorious crew, agreed.

"Our feeling is one of almost awe with the boat and sails we were given to work with. There is no question in my mind we had the fastest 12-meter yacht in the world and the best crew in the world."

Undaunted by America's decisive 20th straight defense of the cup, the British challenged for the trophy minutes after Com-odore Percy Chubb of the New York Yacht Club stepped ashore.

The challenge, for 1970, came from the Royal Dorset Yacht Club of Weymouth, England.

Sturrock said perhaps the principal factor in the Australian shutout loss was that Dame Pattie had been designed to a specific condition: The 11-knot winds that blow on average in September on Rhode Island Sound.

Favorable Conditions

Monday's race finally brought the conditions the Australians were waiting for: 12-knot winds from the southwest that moderated to 10 at the race's end.

But Intrepid won by 3 minutes, 37 seconds.

Both yachts received a deafening salute from the few spectator craft which stuck it out to the end. Back in Newport, Intrepid's champagne-guzzling crew threw every one in sight into the harbor including several members of the race committee, braided yachting blazers, caps and all. Their smiles on surfacing seemed almost as chilly as the water.

Golden Glovers to Highlight Saturday Boxing Show

Working Press

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

With apologies to the late Dan Parker, here are some pertinent and impertinent questions on sports subjects pertinent and otherwise:

Didn't it figure for the frustrated Baltimore Orioles to vent their spleen on somebody—like the Boston Red Sox. And what did the Sox do to deserve that kind of treatment?

The nasty Orioles aside, wouldn't the Red Sox make the most exciting World Series tandem with the St. Louis Cardinals?

Is it true the Mets are trying to unload Tommy Davis and Ed Kranepool, the perennial 21-year-old? And who would be left? Ron Swoboda, Tom Seaver and who?

WHAT PRIMITIVE DRIVE makes grown men want to play semi-pro football.

But, then, did you ever see a more exciting human bulldozer than Dave Mallory of the Hudson Valley Crusaders, Sunday occupants of Dietz Stadium?

Is it because the batters are so inept or the pitchers so good that a .250 batting average is now considered a badge of distinction in the major leagues?

Remember way back when a .250 hitter was the object of scorn and derision in the big show?

Isn't now the time to reorganize the City Softball League with a non-municipal committee assisting Andy Murphy in upgrading the circuit on a county wide basis next year?

Is there a better organized or more successful sports group anywhere than the Saugerties Softball League?

Isn't taking 7-5 odds that the next pitch on a 3-2 count will be fouled one of the surest bets in all sports? Try for five or six games?

WOULDN'T IT BE WISE to check the sound system at the municipal auditorium before the boxers, politicians, opera singers and comedians assemble there Saturday night?

Isn't the quartet of Chris Gallo, Jack Ferraro, Tom Carlin and Bob Shlightner as good as any other four men who ever tossed a bowling ball in Kingston?

Wasn't professional football at Middletown a pretty long shot to begin with?

Wouldn't it be better if the Mets fired all their players and started all over with Manager Wes Westrum?

Was there ever a more thrilling radio commercial than Robert Merrill's rendition of the Schaefer beer jingle?

Speaking of radio, whatever became of announcer-personalities like Tiny Ruffner, Ed Thorngren, Milton J. Cross, Alois Havrilla, Norman Brokenshire, et al?

Isn't John Flanagan, the Poughkeepsie Journal sports editor, the finest journalist-golfer in the state?

DO THOSE KIDS STAY UP all night dreaming up questions to trip Ron Gabriele on his Sports Line program?

If Nino Benvenuti is the greatest European boxer since Marcel Cerdan, won't he have to prove it Sept. 28 against Emile Griffith in their return go for the middleweight title?

Didn't our own Ed Palladino rate right up there with Joe DeNanno, Joe Gerardi, Lionhearted, Clocker Lawson in handi-capping the nags this year?

The Super Bowl ratings notwithstanding, we still think Curt Gowdy and Paul Christman make up the best football broadcasting duo on the airwaves.

How many years will it be before women take over golf clubs completely and men will be permitted to play on Tuesdays?

Wasn't it nice of Millie Hague of New Paltz to see that we got a jar of authentic Cape Cod raspberry jam?

Highland Seeking 3rd Straight Title

This might be the year the Highland High football team comes back to the other clubs in the UCLAL race.

Seeking a third straight league title, the Highlanders kick off their campaign Saturday against Pine Bush and coach Lem Atkins has only four starters from last year's 7-1 squad.

Highland will probably start Ed Dapp and Paul Valli at the ends; Ed Perkins and Petery at tackles; Marty Lukach and

Jim Gallito has to fill the talented shoes of Greg Cappillino at quarterback. Cappillino was a starter for three seasons.

Boice Hits .467 To Pace Interstate

Cards to Accept WS Ticket Orders

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The front office of the St. Louis Cardinals didn't bother to wait for the team to clinch the National League pennant. The club announced Monday it will begin accepting World Series ticket orders on Friday.

The third, fourth and fifth games of the series are to be played in St. Louis Oct. 7, 8 and 9. Bad weather could alter the schedule, as could a playoff in the American League. The series is scheduled to begin Oct. 4.

Here are procedures for ordering tickets:

1. Orders will be accepted for two sets of tickets (two tickets each to game 3, 4 and 5).

2. A check for $49 must accompany each order, ($8 each ticket and $1 handling and mailing charge).

3. Orders must be postmarked only Sept. 22. No other dates will be considered.

4. Checks must be payable to "St. Louis Cardinals, Agent."

5. Checks should be addressed to "World Series Tickets, P.O. Box 8888, St. Louis, Mo., 63102."

6. A large self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed.

Chick Boice, Kingston Braves first baseman, is the batting champion of the Interstate Baseball League. He finished with a .467 average to beat Cliff Savage, Amenia, by 23 points.

The Braves are scheduled to play Winsted Sunday at Cantine Field, Saugerties, in the second game of their best-of-three semi-final playoff series. Winsted easily won the opener, 14-1.

C. Jacobs led Otsego bowlers with 234-243-650. Runnerup was B. Peterson with 235-624. First names of bowlers were not submitted.

The municipal auditorium which once hosted glamorous boxing names like world champions Sugar Ray Robinson, Marty Servo and Lou Ambers will come alive again Saturday night.

The occasion is the amateur boxing and entertainment for the benefit of the Ulster County Democratic Committee.

Two top bouts have been announced by Jim McLaughlin,

In the semi-final event, Tom Elliott, runnerup in the 135-pound Golden Gloves division, will meet Jimmy Daronte, who is unattached.

McLaughlin, who is assisted by Sylvester Bruno, as matchmaker, will announce the remainder of the card in the next few days. He plans eight or ten bouts. Each will consist of three, three-minute rounds, instead of the traditional 2-minute rounds for amateurs.

Sharing the spotlight with the boxing show, will be the introduction of local, state and county Democratic personalities.

Also listed are live music by the rock and roll group, "Love's Body" and the appearance of an opera singer to be announced.

Emphasis on Boxing
But the main emphasis is on boxing and McLaughlin says he's going all out to stage a bangup show.

"We'll have eight or ten bouts ranging from bantams to heavyweights," he said. "We also expect to have some outstanding boxing personalities of the past make guest appearances."

He said he is hoping to have two former Kingston boxing greats—Joey Carpino and Monk Armstrong—referee a bout each.

McLaughlin said he would also invite Buster Mathis, one of the young heavyweight contenders at Rhinebeck and battled Ron Marsh at Madison Square Garden last night.

The New Paltz ring veteran says he has also invited several former world boxing champions to guest referee one bout each.

"I've been in contact with some pretty big names," said McLaughlin, "and if they show will add plenty of color to the occasion."

McLaughlin predicted a capacity crowd for Saturday's show. "Our advance sale is pretty good," he said, "and between the boxing fans and political people involved in the campaign a sellout is assured."

Tickets will be available at the door. Meanwhile reservations are being handled by all Democratic town chairmen and county officials.

Costello Leads CSL Pitchers In 3 Divisions

Bill Costello, who pitched Perry's Grill to the City Softball League championship, scored a triple in the league's pitching department.

He had the most wins (11), lowest earned run average (1.53) in 15 games and was struckout leader (139) by a wide margin. Bill Stokes fanned 75 and George Norton 52. Norton was runnerup in ERA with 1.75.

The summaries:

To replace Al Drake (Waynesburg College), Larry

Flowers (Citadel) and Dave Roberts (out for soccer), Gilligan has Jim Gilpatrick, John Salzman, Ed Freer, Gary Flowers and Roger Thiel ready to step in. They are veterans and did well during 1966.

This is Gilligan's fourth year as cross country coach. In the previous seasons, his team's have won a pair of DUSO titles and three straight Section 9 championships. In fact, the Maroon harriers have won 18 straight dual meets.

"We have good balance and our first seven boys seem to be close for scoring purposes. We are hopeful of defending our DUSO title, though Middle-town and Newburgh will be tough," Gilligan said.

Mathis Wants Frazier After Stopping Marsh

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Unbeaten Buster Mathis and Joe Frazier, amateur rivals in the Olympic Trials three years ago, appear to be heading on a collision course in the pro ranks today.

"I want Frazier," bellowed Buster, trimmed down to a svelte 239 1/2 pounds, after he dropped 186-pound Ron Marsh five times in stopping the fighting Kansas schoolteacher in 1:13 of the fourth round at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

The onetime 300-pound blimp may get Frazier but not right away. Frazier, 17-0, ranked first by Ring Magazine and eighth by the World Boxing Association, has an Oct. 17 date with Tony Dohle in Philadelphia for Oct. 17. He saw Buster's debut as Garden main event.

Buster, now 21-0 with 15 knockouts but unranked, may take on faded Brian London of Britain for promoter Ingemar Johansson in Stockholm or Go-teborg in late October or early November. Johansson, the former heavyweight champion, saw Buster demolish the out-weighted, outgamed and outsped Marsh and then talked business with Jimmy Iselin.

Iselin is Mathis' manager and one of a syndicate of wealthy young men backing the 23-year-old thick-necked giant from Grand Rapids, Mich.

Mathis beat Frazier in the Olympic Trials in 1964 and then beat the Philadelphian again shortly afterwards in a workout in California. But Buster broke a thumb and Frazier replaced him on the team.

Episcopal Plea Gains Support on Negro Aid

SEATTLE (AP) — A swelling lineup of religious leaders across the nation today backed an Episcopal leader's appeal that all faiths divert money to Negro-led groups working to improve the lot of their race.

Messages of support poured in from various Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish officials.

Hailing the plan, Dr. Arthur S. Flemming, president of the National Council of Churches, said the interdenominational organization favored reallocation of Church funds to help "victims of discrimination" win justice.

The president of the American Jewish Committee, Morris B. Abram of New York, said it also stood behind the call for "major cooperative undertaking" to aid the poor in their struggle for "basic human rights."

Catholic Bishop James P. Shannon of St. Paul-Minneapolis

sent his endorsement of the plan "for broader ecumenical response" to the crisis in slums of American cities.

The reaction came in response to a plea by Episcopal Presiding Bishop John E. Hines for a "full-scale mobilization" of religious resources to underwrite efforts of Negro community-action groups.

To start the process, his own Church's governing convention here is considering a proposal for shifting $3 million annually from usual church programs to back urban projects for Negroes.

Meanwhile, bishops Monday swept aside objections to the seating of a nonconformist colleague, the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike.

The action "showed a progressive openness on the part of the bishops," said Bishop Ivo I. Curtis of Seattle.

It also gave a possible clue to the mood of the church in acting on a pending document that would strongly uphold freedom

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly opens its regular session today preoccupied with Middle East problems that few delegates thought they could quickly solve. For the first time, a Communist seemed assured of election as assembly president.

The Arab-Israeli conflict, underscored by a new brief Suez Canal firefight Monday, took a "high priority" place on the agenda. But tough advance position statements from both sides foreshadowed more forensics than movements towards peace.

The man expected to guide debate on the question is Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu of Romania. Reflecting his government's independent foreign policy, the 51-year-old Communist has received wide support as a presidential candidate.

Even before the 22nd regular session got under way Soviet and Arab voices demanded Israel's immediate withdrawal from territories captured during the six-day June war. The Israeli reply was that without its recognition by Arab states and direct negotiations there could be no solution to the problem.

The Israelis also spiked advance as "pro-Arab" a peace plan that London informants said British Foreign Secretary George Brown brought with him to the new session.

Brown's plan called for a pull-back of Israeli forces from the Suez Canal 25 or 30 miles to a fortified line on the Sinai peninsula as a move to prime an eventual settlement, the informants said.

Russian delegates, sticking to the line they developed during the summer's inconclusive emergency session, said they would call on the new assembly to "take measures to insure the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces." The emergency meetings ended Monday.

"We had hoped for a different tone and a different approach" from the Soviets," replied U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

Despite its "high priority" status, regular session debate on the Middle East did not seem likely to begin before mid-October.

The prospective assembly agenda listed 96 other items, including the seating of Communist China, disarmament and the installing of a U.N. administration in South-West Africa.

The Vietnam war was not mentioned, but was certain to come up during general policy debate which begins Thursday.

Rockefeller Could Win: Oregon Dem

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The chairman of the Oregon Democratic party said Monday that Republican Nelson Rockefeller would beat President Johnson if a presidential election were held today in Oregon.

Ed Fadeley, a state senator and a Eugene lawyer, said Johnson was declining in popularity partly because of "the yo-yo state of the economy."

He told the Eugene Register-Guard that he thought California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be a strong Republican candidate, but that Rockefeller, the governor of New York, was the only Republican who could actually beat the president in Oregon.

In 1964, Rockefeller won the Oregon Republican presidential primary, defeating five other candidates, including Henry Cabot Lodge and Barry Goldwater.

FIRST CHECK — John Shults of Canfield Supply Company presents the first check received in the 1968 Community Chest campaign to George W. Tamke, campaign chairman. ## Makes Debut Tonight In Showboat Revival

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I hope I make it," says Gale Sherwood of her debut tonight in a lavish new production of "Showboat" at the Music Center.

"My understudy keeps tripping me as I go by," she says with a rueful smile. "And yesterday I fell off the piano."

But there's little doubt that she will be onstage in her role as Julie for the Civic Light Opera. After 15 years of tramping the world as Nelson Eddy's partner, the show-must-go-on spirit is ingrained on her character.

Miss Sherwood's long association with Eddy came to an end March 5 when the famed baritone died at 65 in Miami. At first she was lost.

"If Nelson had been ill for a while, I might have had some time to think about the future," she commented between final rehearsals with Pat O'Brien, Eddie Foy Jr., Eileen Christy and other cast members.

"But he suffered a stroke onstage, and six hours later he was dead. I was at his bedside when he died."

"I had offers to go out as a single immediately afterward. But I didn't feel like working. I wasn't sure that I ever wanted to work again, and for five months I did nothing. Then the chance to play 'Showboat' came along."

"Even then, I wasn't sure I wanted to work. But at least I would play the more interesting role of Julie and I'd have two good songs—'Bill' and 'Can't Help Lovin' that Man of Mine.' Years ago in Sacramento I had played the innocuous role of Magnolia. So I decided to go back."

She's glad she did. Despite occasional shakes—"I've never gotten over being scared on stage"—she has been enjoying herself. The years with Eddy helped maintain her sense of humor. "I've always been something of a nut—in fact, that's my real name, Jacqueline Nutt."

Her mother changed the name

at age 5, when Gale began appearing on Canadian radio. She was born in Hamilton, Ont., came to Hollywood when she was 8. She developed from child actress to mature soprano, appearing in movies, television, operettas and USO shows. But she never achieved star billing until a chance tryout for Eddy's Las Vegas act.

For 10 months a year they played night clubs and theaters throughout the U.S., Canada, Australia and elsewhere, and Miss Sherwood calculates she sang 58,000 duets with Eddy.

Five Workers Hurt in Blast On Hudson

GLENMONT, N.Y. (AP) — Dynamite charges being used to deepen a channel in the Hudson River south of Albany exploded prematurely Monday, injuring five construction workers and sinking their drilling barge.

The injured suffered broken ankles.

They were James Stroud, 26, of Bethlehem, N.Y.; Donald Mathew, 34, of North Hatfield, Mass.; Joseph Terraciano, 23, of Hopewell, N.J.; Alexander Eclabage, 26, of Stockton, N.J., and Gary Perweiler, 21, of Annandale, N.Y.

All were employees of the MacAlinden Construction Co. of Hopewell, N.J.

Police said the men were working on a 30-by-20-foot barge, placing dynamite charges in about 30 feet of water to deepen the channel so that ocean-going vessels could reach the plant of the Sears Petroleum Corp.

The charges may have been set off by friction from a drill bit or by static electricity from waves from another boat, police said.

Community Theater To Close Temporarily

Kingston's Community Theater will temporarily shut its doors within the week for the first time in its long history, John Doyle, Theater manager, disclosed today.

Doyle said, "I want it understood that this closing is only temporary. We will reopen in mid-October. Our investment is too great."

Doyle explained the decision this way: "September is a bad month in our business. Many of the film companies withhold their first class pictures until later in the fall."

"As a result, due to the lack of quality pictures available Doyle also attributed the suspension to the fact that too many competitors had to vie for few quality product films. 'We don't intend to play re-runs,' the Community manager stated. 'during September, we have decided to suspend our operations.'"

Reagan Turns Thumbs Down On Presidential Organization

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan ruled out today the creation of a Reagan-For-President campaign organization before the 1968 Republican National Convention.

Reagan said he is not a candidate for the nation's highest office. But, for the first time, he said, "I'm aware of the talk that's been going on" about the possibility of him becoming a candidate.

But he disclosed he will set up machinery in California to handle the June presidential primary campaign for the favorite son delegation he intends to lead to the convention.

Reagan said he will have an organization in California next year to assure a good showing for his delegation. He said he decided to lead the state Republican delegation to prevent other candidates from coming into California and engaging in a repeat of the bitter Nelson A. Rockefeller-Barry Goldwater California fight of 1964.

Reagan was interviewed in his Capitol office less than two weeks before he leaves on a speaking tour to Illinois, South Carolina and Wisconsin in which he plans to discuss Vietnam and domestic issues.

Asked if he could see any circumstance that would force the convention to turn to him, Reagan said, "There is no way I can answer that question."

He said that any answer short of a flat "no" would be taken as a declaration of candidacy. He reiterated, however, he is not a candidate for president.

Reagan said he definitely will not take part in pre-convention campaigning in primaries or rounding up delegates at state conventions.

He also said he didn't believe he would be drafted as a presidential choice.

Reagan reiterated he will not campaign in Oregon, Nebraska and Wisconsin, states where his name is expected to be on the open primary ballot.

The governor said New Hampshire's secretary of state soon will receive a letter from him refusing permission for his name to be on that state's primary ballot.

But the governor's upcoming speaking tour includes a speech in Milwaukee, Wis., and in November he will speak in Oregon.

He said the 1968 presidential campaign would revolve around Vietnam, inflation and "some of the things like Detroit and Newark," cities hit by racial violence and what he termed "symbols" of the nation's domestic problems.

He told the Eugene Register-Guard that he thought California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be a strong Republican candidate, but that Rockefeller, the governor of New York, was the only Republican who could actually beat the president in Oregon.

In 1964, Rockefeller won the Oregon Republican presidential primary, defeating five other candidates, including Henry Cabot Lodge and Barry Goldwater.

Meanwhile, bishops Monday swept aside objections to the seating of a nonconformist colleague, the Rt. Rev. James A. Pike.

The action "showed a progressive openness on the part of the bishops," said Bishop Ivo I. Curtis of Seattle.

It also gave a possible clue to the mood of the church in acting on a pending document that would strongly uphold freedom of doctrinal inquiry, and call for changes in canons virtually blocking heresy trials.

Bishop Pike was named last year in a heresy case, now bogged down in complications.

As the bicameral governing congress for 3.5 million Episcopalians went into its second working day, the lay-clergy House of Deputies took up another liberalizing measure—to allow the seating of women.

Predicting approval of the measure, which has been argued at conventions for a quarter century, Mrs. Seaton G. Bailey, of Griffin, Ga., president of Episcopal Church Women, said:

If the deputies do not vote to seat women this time, they will not be representing the sentiment of their dioceses."

The seating of Bishop Pike Monday by a vote of 84 to 30 in the House of Bishops, followed a flurry of debate.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly opens its regular session today preoccupied with Middle East problems that few delegates thought they could quickly solve. For the first time, a Communist seemed assured of election as assembly president.

Even before the 22nd regular session got under way Soviet and Arab voices demanded Israel's immediate withdrawal from territories captured during the six-day June war. The Israeli reply was that without its recognition by Arab states and direct negotiations there could be no solution to the problem.

The Israelis also spiked advance as "pro-Arab" a peace plan that London informants said British Foreign Secretary George Brown brought with him to the new session.

Brown's plan called for a pull-back of Israeli forces from the Suez Canal 25 or 30 miles to a fortified line on the Sinai peninsula as a move to prime an eventual settlement, the informants said.

Russian delegates, sticking to the line they developed during the summer's inconclusive emergency session, said they would call on the new assembly to "take measures to insure the immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces." The emergency meetings ended Monday.

"We had hoped for a different tone and a different approach from the Soviets," replied U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.

Despite its "high priority" status, regular session debate on the Middle East did not seem likely to begin before mid-October.

The prospective assembly agenda listed 96 other items, including the seating of Communist China, disarmament and the installing of a U.N. administration in South-West Africa.

The Vietnam war was not mentioned, but was certain to come up during general policy debate which begins Thursday.

Rockefeller Could Win Oregon Dem

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The chairman of the Oregon Democratic party said Monday that Republican Nelson Rockefeller would beat President Johnson if a presidential election were held today in Oregon.

Ed Fadeley, a state senator and a Eugene lawyer, said Johnson was declining in popularity partly because of "the yo-yo state of the economy."

He told the Eugene Register-Guard that he thought California Gov. Ronald Reagan would be a strong Republican candidate, but that Rockefeller, the governor of New York, was the only Republican who could actually beat the president in Oregon.

In 1964, Rockefeller won the Oregon Republican presidential primary, defeating five other candidates, including Henry Cabot Lodge and Barry Goldwater.

In the fall election President Johnson ran 5-3 ahead of Republican nominee Goldwater.

But the governor's upcoming speaking tour includes a speech in Milwaukee, Wis., and in November he will speak in Oregon.

He said the 1968 presidential campaign would revolve around Vietnam, inflation and "some of the things like Detroit and Newark," cities hit by racial violence and what he termed "symbols" of the nation's domestic problems.

Makes Debut Tonight In Showboat Revival

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I hope I make it," says Gale Sherwood of her debut tonight in a lavish new production of "Showboat" at the Music Center.

"My understudy keeps tripping me as I go by," she says with a rueful smile. "And yesterday I fell off the piano."

But there's little doubt that she will be onstage in her role as Julie for the Civic Light Opera. After 15 years of trouping the world as Nelson Eddy's partner, the show-must-go-on spirit is ingrained on her character.

Miss Sherwood's long association with Eddy came to an end March 5 when the famed baritone died at 65 in Miami. At first she was lost.

"If Nelson had been ill for a while, I might have had some time to think about the future," she commented between final rehearsals with Pat O'Brien, Eddie Foy Jr., Eileen Christy and other cast members.

"But he suffered a stroke onstage, and six hours later he was dead. I was at his bedside when he died."

"I had offers to go out as a single immediately afterward. But I didn't feel like working. I wasn't sure that I ever wanted to work again, and for five months I did nothing. Then the chance to play 'Showboat' came along."

"Even then, I wasn't sure I wanted to work. But at least I would play the more interesting role of Julie and I'd have two good songs—'Bill' and 'Can't Help Lovin' that Man of Mine.' Years ago in Sacramento I had played the innocuous role of Magnolia. So I decided to go back."

She's glad she did. Despite occasional shakes—"I've never gotten over being scared onstage"—she has been enjoying herself. The years with Eddy helped maintain her sense of humor. "I've always been something of a nut—in fact, that's my real name, Jacqueline Nutt."

Her mother changed the name

at age 5, when Gale began appearing on Canadian radio. She was born in Hamilton, Ont., came to Hollywood when she was 8. She developed from child actress to mature soprano, appearing in movies, television, operettas and USO shows. But she never achieved star billing until a chance tryout for Eddy's Las Vegas act.

For 10 months a year they played night clubs and theaters throughout the U.S., Canada, Australia and elsewhere, and Miss Sherwood calculates she sang 58,000 duets with Eddy.

Five Workers Hurt in Blast On Hudson

GLENMONT, N.Y. (AP) — Dynamite charges being used to deepen a channel in the Hudson River south of Albany exploded prematurely Monday, injuring five construction workers and sinking their drilling barge.

The injured suffered broken ankles.

They were James Stroud, 26, of Bethlehem, N.Y.; Donald Mathew, 34, of North Hatfield, Mass.; Joseph Terraciano, 23, of Hopewell, N.J.; Alexander Eclabage, 26, of Stockton, N.J.; and Gary Perweiler, 21, of Annandale, N.Y.

All were employees of the MacAlinden Construction Co. of Hopewell, N.J.

Police said the men were working on a 30-by-20-foot barge, placing dynamite charges in about 30 feet of water to deepen the channel so that ocean-going vessels could reach the plant of the Sears Petroleum Corp.

The charges may have been set off by friction from a drill bit or by static electricity from waves from another boat, police said.

Community Theater To Close Temporarily

Kingston's Community Theater will temporarily shut its doors within the week for the first time in its long history, John Doyle, theater manager, disclosed today.

Doyle said, "I want it understood that this closing is only temporary. We will reopen in mid-October. Our investment is too great."

"September is a bad month in our business. Many of the film companies withhold their first class pictures until later in the fall."

"As a result, due to the lack of quality pictures available Doyle also attributed the suspension to the fact that too many competitors had to vie for few quality product films. 'We don't intend to play re-runs,' the Community manager stated. 'during September, we have decided to suspend our operations.'"

Reagan Turns Thumbs Down On Presidential Organization

By BILL BOYARSKY

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan ruled out today the creation of a Reagan-Ford-President campaign organization before the 1968 Republican National Convention.

Reagan said he is not a candidate for the nation's highest office. But, for the first time, he said, "I'm aware of the talk that's been going on" about the possibility of him becoming a candidate.

But he disclosed he will set up machinery in California to handle the June presidential primary campaign for the favorite son delegation he intends to lead to the convention.

Reagan said he will have an organization in California next year to assure a good showing for his delegation. He said he decided to lead the state Republican delegation to prevent other candidates from coming into California and engaging in a repeat of the bitter Nelson A. Rockefeller-Barry Goldwater California fight of 1964.

Reagan was interviewed in his Capitol office less than two weeks before he leaves on a speaking tour to Illinois, South Carolina and Wisconsin in which he plans to discuss Vietnam and domestic issues.

Asked if he could see any circumstance that would force the convention to turn to him, Reagan said, "There is no way I can answer that question."

He said that any answer short of a flat "no" would be taken as a declaration of candidacy. He reiterated, however, he is not a candidate for president.

Reagan said he definitely will not take part in pre-convention campaigning in primaries or

School Enrollment Figures Up

The figures include the enrollment from kindergarten through high school.

Enrollment in grades 7 through 12 increased by 2.2 per cent over last year to 1,762,064 pupils, the department said. Elementary attendance increased by 1.6 per cent to 2,456,284.

The professional staff reached 185,000, up from last year's 181,649.

Each Region Protected

5 Billion Dollar Nike System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's plan to build a $5 billion Nike X antiballistic missile system will provide each region of the United States with at least one battery of far-reaching warhead interceptors.

Defense scientists made this clear today in guarded interviews with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara's so-called "light" defense against nuclear attack, primarily directed to guard against a potential threat from Red China.

The decision to proceed with deployment of an antimissile system was announced by McNamara Monday in a speech to news editors at San Francisco.

Although the plan he announced is one of the biggest strategic decisions in U.S. history, it is not the often-discussed full-blown antimissile system which would have an estimated cost of up to $40 billion, McNamara opposes such an outlay.

The exact locations of the antimissile batteries, each with several missiles, remain a closely held secret. But one Pentagon official familiar with the plans said the main line of defense will center on several antimissile complexes stationed just below the Canadian border. Other antimissile sites will be interspersed along the western and eastern seaboard, in the Midwest and in the Southwest and Deep South. Each site will be protected by a battery of Sprint missiles.

Government sources also indicated Canada has given the United States permission to establish one of the vital missile-detection radar sites on Canadian territory near the Great Lakes.

Nike X is a technological marvel of the 1960s which, according to Pentagon scientists, is far more advanced than the only other missile defense in existence, the Soviet ABM.

Its prime purpose: to defend against what McNamara termed a possible irrational nuclear missile attack by Red China in the 1970s.

"It would be insane and suicidal for her to do so, but one can conceive of conditions under which China might miscalculate," McNamara said. In addition to providing region-wide defense, some Nike X missiles will be deployed to protect American offensive missile batteries against Soviet attack.

But as McNamara portrayed it, the ABM decision was made primarily to counter a hostile China in three to five years—not to match the Soviet Union's deployment of antimissiles.

The Pentagon chief said he still opposes the idea of trying to defend against an all-out, sophisticated Soviet missile attack with antimissile missiles.

He warned danger exists in deploying even a light missile defense that "pressures will develop to expand it into a heavy Soviet-oriented ABM system."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have urged a wider deployment of an antimissile system to provide a general nationwide missile umbrella plus individual protection for 25 to 50 American cities.

McNamara said his $5 billion system would:

"Have a much higher degree of reliability against a Chinese attack than the much more massive and complex system that some have recommended against a possible Soviet attack."

"Provide an additional indication to Asians that we intend

"Enable us to add a further defense to our Minuteman sites against Soviet attack" while "avoiding a much more costly expansion of that force."

"Add protection of our population against the improbable but possible accidental launch of an intercontinental missile by any one of the nuclear powers."

Much of McNamara's speech to a United Press International meeting was devoted to explaining his view that the best way to maintain superiority over the Soviet Union is not by matching defensive moves but by maintaining superior offensive forces.

McNamara said the United States already is spending billions on its advanced Minuteman and sea-based Poseidon missiles to make sure they can get past Soviet missile defense.

Months have passed since the United States proposed to the Soviet Union an agreement on curbing and eventually reducing the nuclear arsenals, but McNamara refused to acknowledge failure in the diplomatic effort.

NOT TRUE — William Bundy, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, described as "nonsense" published statements by Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Harry S. Ashmore that President Johnson "brutally" sabotaged a promising Vietnam peace effort by private citizens last February.

Bundy charged Ashmore with giving a "misleading" account of circumstances surrounding the newest controversy over the Vietnam war. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Crops in Danger By Beulah's Winds

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Beulah, already a killer, swung toward Brownsville at the mouth of the Rio Grande and the lower Texas coast today with ominous fury.

Unless the massive storm again changed course, Beulah threatened a devastating strike through the citrus groves of Texas' lower Rio Grande Valley, laden with a multimillion-dollar crop, and up the coast past Corpus Christi, a busy port, tourist center and site of a big naval air station.

At 6 a.m. EDT the Weather Bureau issued emergency hurricane warnings for the Gulf coast from Brownsville to Port Aransas, a short distance beyond Corpus Christi, and gale warnings for the sector from Port Aransas to Galveston, more than 300 miles northeast of Brownsville.

Late Monday night the 11-day-old hurricane, responsible for at least 22 deaths in a vicious sweep through the eastern Caribbean and across Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, slowed its advance toward the west north-west and turned erratic.

Once more describing Beulah

as a severe and dangerous hurricane, the Weather Bureau urged immediate precautions for the alerted areas.

"Present indications are that the center should move inland near the mouth of the Rio Grande tonight and then turn northward paralleling the south Texas coast," the 6 a.m. advisory said, predicting a gradual increase in its 8 m.p.h. advance toward the northwest.

Winds were expected to hit hurricane force of 75 m.p.h. up on the extreme lower Texas coast by early evening and elsewhere along the state's lower coast by late tonight or Wednesday.

Coast Guardsmen on Lower Padre Island, a short distance north of Brownsville opposite Port Isabel, reported most of the 300 persons in that tourist and fishing resort were evacuating.

Authorities said there might be a more general exodus of residents in this vicinity later in the day.

Oil companies began moving workers from offshore drill rigs as far up the coast as Louisiana.

Police said two friends of Davidson made the identification Monday.

Davidson: Mary E. Erwin, 19, and Kathleen M. Renahan, 22, both of Rochester, died when the open-topped convertible crashed off a highway ramp on the city's southeastern fringe and landed on railroad tracks.

The fourth occupant, Margaret A. Allen, 19, of Rochester, was reported in satisfactory condition at Genesee Hospital, where she was unable to question her, however, because she was under heavy sedation.

Davidson lived on Walworth Road.

5 Billion Dollar Nike System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon's plan to build a $5 billion Nike X antiballistic missile system will provide each region of the United States with at least one battery of far-reaching warhead interceptors.

Defense scientists made this clear today in guarded interviews about the defense secretary Robert S. McNamara's so-called "light" defense against nuclear attack, primarily directed to guard against a potential threat from Red China.

The decision to proceed with deployment of an antimissile system was announced by McNamara Monday in a speech to news editors at San Francisco.

Although the plan he announced is one of the biggest strategic decisions in U.S. history, it is not the first in the antimissile system which would have an estimated cost of up to $40 billion. McNamara opposes such an outlay. The exact locations of the antimissile batteries, each with several missiles, remain a closely held secret. But one Pentagon official familiar with the plans said the main line of defense will center on several antimissile complexes stationed just below the Canadian border. Other antimissile sites will be interspersed along the western and eastern seaboard, in the Midwest and in the Southwest and Deep South. Each site will be protected by a battery of Sprint missiles.

Government sources also indicated Canada has given the United States permission to establish one of the vital missile-detection radar sites on Canadian territory near the Great Lakes.

Nike X is a technological marvel of the 1960s which, according to Pentagon scientists, is far more advanced than the only other missile defense in existence, the Soviet ABM.

Its prime purpose: to defend against what McNamara termed a possible irrational nuclear missile attack by Red China in the 1970s.

"It would be insane and suicidal for us to say, but one can conceive of conditions under which China might miscalculate," McNamara said. In addition to providing region-wide defense, some Nike X missiles will be deployed to protect American offensive missile batteries against Soviet attack.

But as McNamara portrayed it, the ABM decision was made primarily to counter a hostile China in three to five years—not to match the Soviet Union's deployment of antimissiles.

The Pentagon chief said he still opposes the idea of trying to defend against an all-out, sophisticated Soviet missile attack with antimissile missiles.

He warned danger exists in deploying even a light missile defense that "pressures will develop to expand it into a heavy Soviet-oriented ABM system."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have urged a wider deployment of an antimissile system to provide a general nationwide missile umbrella plus individual protection for 25 to 50 American cities.

McNamara said his $5 billion system would:

—"Have a much higher degree of reliability against a Chinese attack than the much more massive and complex system that some have recommended against a possible Soviet attack."

—"Provide an additional indication to Asians that we intend to deter China from nuclear blackmail."

—"Enable us to add a further defense to our Minuteman sites against Soviet attack" while "avoiding a much more costly expansion of that force."

—"Add protection of our population against the improbable but possible accidental launch of an intercontinental missile by any one of the nuclear powers."

Much of McNamara's speech to a United Press International meeting was devoted to explaining his view that the best way to maintain superiority over the Soviet Union is not by matching defensive moves but by maintaining superior offensive forces.

McNamara said the United States already is spending billions on its advanced Minuteman and sea-based Poseidon missiles to make sure they can get past Soviet missile defense.

Months have passed since the United States proposed to the Soviet Union an agreement on curbing and eventually reducing the nuclear arsenals, but McNamara refused to acknowledge failure in the diplomatic effort.

NOT TRUE — William Bundy, Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, described as "nonsense" published statements by Pulitzer Prize-winning editor Harry S. Ashmore that President Johnson "brutally" sabotaged a promising Vietnam peace effort by private citizens last February. Bundy charged Ashmore with giving a "misleading" account of circumstances surrounding the newest controversy over the Vietnam war. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Crops in Danger By Beulah's Winds

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Beulah, already a killer, swung toward Brownsville at the mouth of the Rio Grande and the lower Texas coast today with ominous fury.

Unless the massive storm again changed course, Beulah threatened a devastating strike through the citrus groves of Texas' lower Rio Grande Valley, laden with a multimillion-dollar crop, and up the coast past Corpus Christi, a busy port, tourist center and site of a big naval air station.

At 6 a.m. EDT the Weather Bureau issued emergency hurricane warnings for the Gulf coast from Brownsville to Port Aransas, a short distance beyond Corpus Christi, and gave warnings for the section from Port Aransas to Galveston, more than 300 miles northeast of Brownsville.

Late Monday night the 11-day-old hurricane, responsible for at least 22 deaths in a vicious sweep through the eastern Caribbean and across Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula, slowed its advance toward the west north-west and turned erratic.

Once more describing Beulah

as a severe and dangerous hurricane, the Weather Bureau urged immediate precautions for the alerted areas.

"Present indications are that the center should move inland near the mouth of the Rio Grande tonight and then turn northward paralleling the south Texas coast," the 6 a.m. advisory said, predicting a gradual increase in its 8 m.p.h. advance toward the northwest.

Winds were expected to hit hurricane force of 75 m.p.h. up on the extreme lower Texas coast by early evening and elsewhere along the state's lower coast by late tonight or Wednesday.

Coast Guardsmen on Lower Padre Island, a short distance north of Brownsville opposite Port Isabel, reported most of the 300 persons in that tourist and fishing resort were evacuated.

Authorities said there might be a more general exodus of residents in this vicinity later in the day.

The Texas coast had been under a hurricane watch since Sunday morning.

Polio Shots Not Necessary For School

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — The Corning - Painted Post School District was ordered to admit the children of a Corning chiropractor today, despite their lack of immunization against polio.

State Supreme Court Justice Clarence H. Brisco also directed school officials to appear in court next week to show cause why the order should not be made permanent.

Dr. Joseph Marko obtained the court order after the school denied admittance last Wednesday to his children, Karen, 7, and Paul, 5.

He said he was refusing anti-polio inoculations for his children because of his Greek Catholic belief in freedom of choice and because, he said, such inoculations might have adverse side effects.

State law requires inoculation except in cases where parents are "bonafide members of a recognized religious organization whose teachings are contrary to the practice."

Several chiropractors in the state have said they intended to test the law in the courts. Inoculations are not needed if a person keeps his body - resistance high, they said.

The Supreme Court order also stayed action in Family Court on the district's petition to direct Marko to comply with the law.

Nearly 3.25 million serious crimes, including 10,920 homicides, were committed in the U.S. last year, according to a report by the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Stolen Sidewalk. RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Someone has stolen a Richmond sidewalk.

Police said more than 3,000 "old-fashioned" bricks were taken up over the past few weeks from a sidewalk in the city's older residential East End.

The haul was valued at about $80.

25th Wedding Sans Hubby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© by Chicago Tribune-
N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I will soon have my 25th wedding anniversary except for one thing. My husband and I have separated for the past six years. He has tried to get a divorce, but he will never get one as long as I am living because I shall continue to contest it. You see I am one of those old-fashioned girls who happen to believe that marriage is "for better or worse, till death do us part."

Now this may sound funny to you, but I want to celebrate my silver wedding anniversary with a big party. I want my four children to be there along with friends and family, and I want to get anniversary gifts even if my husband isn't present. I know that one day the crazy fool will come back to me, and when he does, of course, I will take him back.

Does my idea of a silver wedding party sound too wild? And please advise what gifts you think my children should give me. I want some lovely silver to hand down to my grandchildren. — NANA.

DEAR NANA: Unless your estranged husband returns to help you celebrate your 25th wedding anniversary, I'm afraid your idea of celebrating without him is "too wild."

DEAR ABBY: A very dear friend of mine sent me an invitation to her daughter's wedding.

The bride is 14 years old and the groom is 23! Because of my personal convictions that the bride is too young to marry, I have refused to attend the wedding.

Do you believe my actions are too severe, considering I wish the couple all the happiness in the world under the circumstances? — CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: If you term "very dear friend" really means what it says, your friend may "need" a friend at this wedding. You should go and keep your "convictions to yourself."

DEAR ABBY: My son was recently divorced. It wasn't a messy name-calling divorce, but a fairly friendly one.

His ex-wife has remarried, and her new husband does not want her, or her two small children to have anything to do with her ex-family. They have moved across town and have not told anyone of their address, which I respect. And I wish them well.

My son pays a high child support, but never sees the children, altho the court gave him visitation rights. My husband says to leave them alone. My son feels the same way about it. But they are my grandchildren and I miss them. This is all the new husband's idea. Is this fair? What's the answer? UNWANTED GRANDMOTHER

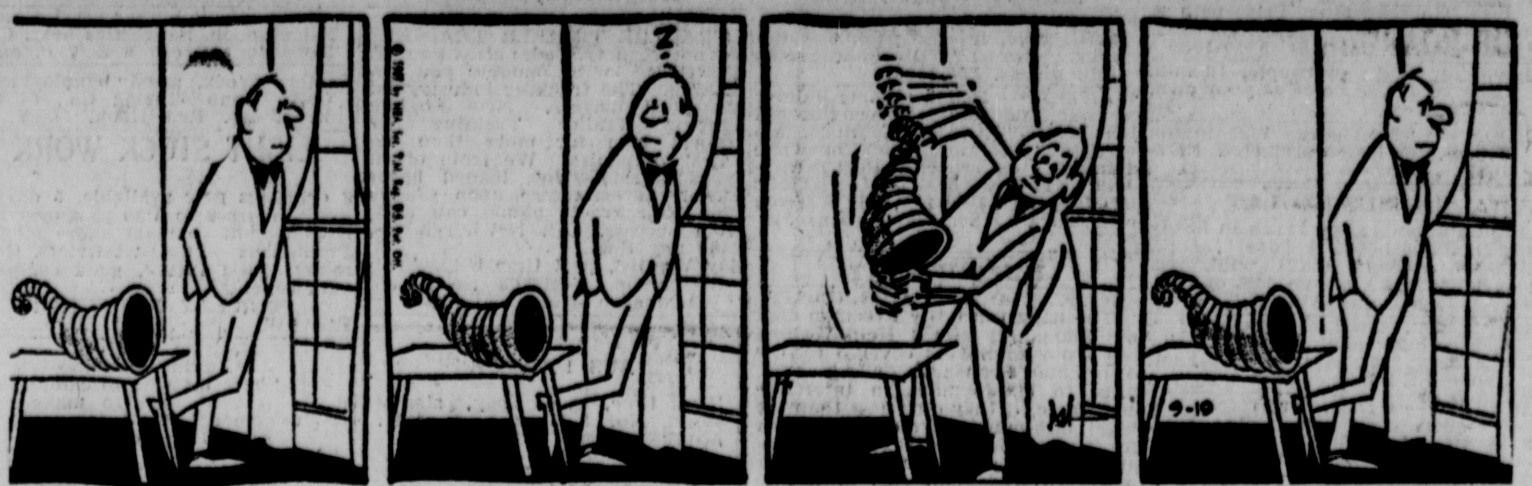

DEAR UNWANTED: No, it's not "fair" — but there is nothing you can do about it. If your son has "visitation rights" and he's not using them, it would appear that he couldn't care less about whether his children ever see their grandparents or not. So don't blame the ex-daughter-in-law or the "new" husband entirely.

CONFIDENTIAL T.O. ANITA: A woman likes — indeed "needs" — to be told out loud that she is loved. And I will tell you another not-so-well-kept "secret." So does a man.

Problems. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'Swindle' Was Just Bad Play

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Victor Mollo, one of England's greatest players and writers, has produced a humorous book on play entitled "Bridge in the Menagerie."

The two principal characters in his menagerie are an obnoxious expert called the "Hideous Hog" and an unfortunate club called the "Rueful Rabbit." The rabbit does everything wrong. The hog tries to play every dummy, usually at no-trump, and continually brings off most absurd swindles.

Today's hand shows the rueful rabbit bringing off a defensive swindle of his own.

West's opening lead of a low diamond was most unusual but he had no decent lead and anyway we are interested in the rabbit, sitting East. Declarer played low from dummy. The rabbit played his jack and was surprised when he held the trick. Then he returned the queen to his partner's ace. The partner lead a third diamond and anyone but the rabbit would have ruffed. In that case declarer would have had no trouble making his contract. He would simply have won the next trick, played his two top trumps and discarded his queen of hearts on a good club.

The rabbit did not ruff. He just discarded a low heart. After this remarkable coup declarer saw no better play than to take the heart finesse. It lost and he was down one. Had the rabbit made a brilliant play? Not at all! He had thought the contract was three dummy with the ten of trumps and discarded his queen of hearts on a good club.

Says Thomas Show Missed Mark

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Thomas' weekly anthology series had its first "book show" Monday night, a slight derivative comedy that missed the mark on most counts, including the production of laughter.

Its inspiration was obviously Damon Runyon's work, but the NBC hour was arch when it should have been robust, self-consciously cute when it should have been outrageously funny.

Thomas was not convincing at playing a compulsive gambler with a tip on a long shot at a time when his pregnant wife drags from him a promise never to gamble after the birth of their child.

There was a complicated plot about borrowing a diamond under false pretenses and hocking it to place bets on the horse. The hour was sandwiched between two returning adventure series on the network. "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." and "I Spy" were both, by coincidence, involved with Greeks.

The brave U.N.C.L.E. agents—Robert Vaughn and David McCallum—this season have abandoned their light-hearted persiflage in the face of peril and play their parts like any average pair of earnest superagents. The plot Monday night had them saving a Greek village from extinction at the hands of a Thru agent raised from infancy to be a heartless murder machine.

"I Spy" did a bit better as far as Greece was concerned, at least in terms of camera work. Where "U.N.C.L.E." is shot on a Hollywood studio lot, the Robert Culp-Bill Cosby series is shot on location, and the back-grounds in Greece were beautiful.

The story, alas, was confusing and the slender plot was dragged out almost to the snapping point. The not-so-secret agents were in Casablanca, as

Rhinebeck Faces Third Budget Vote

By RAY TYSON

Rhinebeck voters, still smoldering from their last two rounds at the polls with a controversial school budget, face yet another bout Sept. 26.

A proposition calling for the addition of $66,000 " . . . to restore school operations" is at stake. Presently Rhinebeck is laboring under an austerity budget.

Gone are cafeteria services, many bus routes, textbook ordering, and extra curricular sports. The $66,000 would re-

Began in Summer

The haggling began during the summer when voters rejected a proposed school budget of $1,400,694. Two weeks later voters again voted down a revised budget of $1,367,345. Both figures posed the first tax hike in the Rhinebeck district in three years.

Roughly, the original budget would have cost taxpayers an amount only saved the district approximately $55,000 less than the proposed budget.

Javits Raps Nationwide Strike Law

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits says he considers it "utterly shocking" that this country can find itself without a law on the books to deal with the health, safety and security of the nation in the event of a national strike or lockout.

The New York Republican made that observation Monday night in an address to 300 business and labor officials attending a meeting of the Industrial Relations Research Association of Western New York. The appearance capped a day-long visit in the Buffalo area.

To remedy the situation, Javits suggested "a very limited seizure" of struck companies in the event of a national emergency, such as a railroad strike. The affected firms, he said, would be placed temporarily in the hands of a special receiver appointed by a federal court after a fact-finding board had made an investigation.

Unlike compulsive arbitration, the state's senior senator contended, limited seizure would leave "the parties free to settle their own disputes on their own terms. At the same time, he said, it would assure 'operation of the enterprise involved in the dispute to the extent necessary to protect the public interest."

On another topic, Javits called for Congressional approval of legislation regulating private pension plans to insure minimum standards and guarantee workers of retirement benefits if their employer went out of business.

He also said federal guarantees of the right by migratory farm laborers to organize for collective bargaining was a necessity. The poor conditions under which most migrants now live, Javits said, can be traced largely to their lack of organization.

Javits is ranking minority member of the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. To make the 1964 Civil Rights Act effective, he asserted, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission should be given back its enforcement power. Legislation carrying that provision now is before Congress, he noted.

Earlier Monday, Javits told a news conference audience Michigan Gov. George Romney was the best 1968 Presidential candidate for Republican moder-

Travia Reconsiders Judgeship Position

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia is having to reconsider his decision to leave his powerful legislative post for a federal court judgeship, it was learned today.

Informed sources reported that Travia was under heavy pressure from Democratic party leaders to stay on as speaker and that indications were he probably would be obliged to yield to their wishes.

Travia, who also is serving as president of the Constitutional Convention, was said to be still eager to exchange his gavel for the robes of a U.S. District Court judge.

At the same time, however, party leaders have sought to persuade him that his departure from the speaker's post could have disastrous results for his party.

Two prominent assemblymen have staked out claims to succeed Travia and have indicated that they would fight to the finish for the coveted post.

The most powerful of these contenders appears to be Stanley Steingut, a Brooklyn colleague and longtime political rival of Travia. He challenged Travia for the speaker's job in 1965 and lost out after a protracted struggle.

The other contender is Assembly Majority Leader Moses M. Weinstein of Queens, who supported Travia in the 1965 fight. Weinstein has said he would not step aside for Steingut.

Party leaders, including U.S. Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and State Chairman John J. Burns, have attempted to work out an accommodation between Steingut and Weinstein but have met with no success.

The prospect thus would be for a public battle that Burns and Kennedy fear would jeopardize party unity — in the 1968 presidential election year.

President Johnson, who has the appointive power for the judgeship Travia seeks, was said to be aware of the problem and to have passed the word that he is disinclined to contribute to party disunity, if that would be the result of sending Travia to the court.

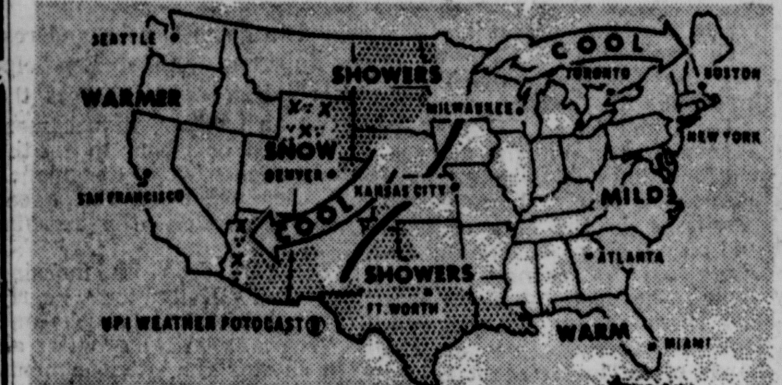

Johnson will be running for re-election next year and will be banking on solid support from the New York Democratic organization.

Travia long has been rumored to be destined for a federal court appointment. There are two vacancies in the 56-year-old lawyer's home district.

Earlier this month, it was reported that Travia had given the go-ahead signal for his appointment and that he had been approved by the state's two U. S. senators and by the state and national bar associations.

The Steingut-Weinstein complication developed immediately, however, with the result that Travia's name has not been forwarded from the Justice Department to the White House.

Following the protocol in such cases, Travia consistently has declined to comment on his prospective appointment except to say that he is aware of the possibility.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Wednesday During tonight showers and thundershowers are expected from the Dakotas into the central Rockies mixed with snow in the higher elevations. LONE ROCK, Wis. (AP) — A Wisconsin farm wife says she'll be wearing tennis shoes when she entertains the wife of the President of the United States Sept. 22.

Mrs. Lyndon Johnson will be in Wisconsin to attend a food exposition.

Her trip includes a stop at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Johnson in the little community of Clyde, south of Lone Rock.

"We're farmers and we'll be dressed as farmers," the farm wife said Thursday.

"I'll just wear my tennis shoes as if I were entertaining friends who came in for coffee."

The farm was selected to show the First Lady and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman a successful example of participation in the American soil conservation program.
